Q. On those TV shows like "Let's Make a Deal," when they give a "zonk" prize like a camel or an earthmover title, does the contestant HAVE to take the prize? What usually happens? B.J.D.

A.: J. T. Hoover, manager, Audience Information, American Broadcasting Co. writes that when a prize such as a camel is given on a show, it is normally not accepted by the contestant. This decision is made not only because of what we might consider in good sense, but also because zoning regulations in most areas of this country prohibit the keeping of certain pets. We hope this clears up the mystery about animals.

Q. Last Spring I bought a round-trip ticket to New York City on Seaway Bus Lines. On Sunday evening, June 1971, I used the first half of it for the trip to New York. Since the returning schedule was so poor, I did not use the second half. I came back by Allegheny Airlines. I was afterwards told by the bus station attendant to mail in the unused portion to Seaway Lines in Erie. This I did, but later, I never received an answer. I know now it was naive not to have sent it by registered or certified mail. I wrote again not so very long ago, admittedly with very little hope. My wife and a friend were present at the station when I left; both know that since that return flight I have not been to New York again at all. I can assure you that I have neither sold or given the ticket to anyone else. I would be grateful if you succeed in solving this for me.

A. Seaway Coach Lines informs us that all refunds for unused tickets are honored provided they are within the designated period of time. The company says your refund was sent to you. Upon receiving your second letter the person that pays the refund was informed and asked to check the matter. She found the refund to be paid a short time prior to your letter and assumed you had received your money. Refunds are paid once a month and thereby some people must wait a period of time. Some become impatient because they don't receive their money immediately. Upon hearing from Periscope, the company checked further and found the check to be outstanding and therefore, placed a stop payment on the check. A new check has been issued and will be sent to you immediately. The company hopes you do not blame them entirely upon the letter being lost in the mail.

Q. My father, who is presently making his home with me, has been having a problem in regard to payments made by money order to an insurance company in Philadelphia. His records show that his premiums should be paid up well in advance by now, while company records would seem to indicate otherwise. Mrs. L.R. River Road

A. The customer service division of the company advises that your father is enrolled in the All Purpose in Hospital Plan at a monthly premium of $6 and has had continuous coverage in this plan since Dec. 1, 1970. The firm is pleased to confirm that his premiums are paid in full through July of 1972. No further premium payments will be due until August 1, 1972.

Flood Toll Reaches 200 In South Dakota; Hundreds Missing, Damage In Millions

Looking For Flood Victims

A group of rescue workers look for flood victims and survivors in an inundated house. Rapid City, S. D., was struck by a flash flood early Saturday after a six-inch rain storm. The death toll passed 200 Sunday with hundreds still missing and damage listed in the millions of dollars.

Kissinger Acknowledges Mistakes In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger acknowledged Sunday the United States made a mistake in its treatment of Japan last summer and vowed there won't be any more "Nixon shocks" to trouble future relations.

Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign policy aide, made the pledge at a three-hour breakfast meeting with Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda on the second day of his fence-mending mission to Japan. The first of the "Nixon shocks," as the Japanese called them, fell last July when the President announced, without consultation with the Japanese, that he was going to Peking. The second, soon after, was the unexpected imposition of surcharges on foreign imports. That dealt Japanese industry a major blow and was succeeded by reevaluation of the yen.

Kissinger told Fukuda he realized the United States should have worked more closely with Tokyo. He promised consultation on any further China moves and economic measures affecting Japan.

The Japanese have been saying that Kissinger knew little about Japanese feelings and attitudes in international affairs. He disarmed Fukuda by admitting the failings, then showing a considerable expertise on things Japanese.

"I was amazed," commented Fukuda in a news conference, "how much Kissinger knew about Japan."

During his 48 hours of almost continuous talks with industrialists, government leaders and politicians, Kissinger has said the United States would like to see the U.S.-Japan security treaty continue in its present form without revision. He called it the keystone to peace in Asia.

Some leaders of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party, among them Yasuhiro Nakasone, the former defense chief, would like to take another look at it in 1975 and possibly substitute a modified security system. Nakasone also brought up strained economic relations between the two countries, proposing a bilateral agreement to anticipate future sources of friction. Kissinger showed a keen interest in this and in Nakasone's further suggestion of U.S.-Japan cooperation in aid to poor Asian countries.

The talks, which included leading editors and representatives of the staunchly anti-American Socialist party, have been held against a background of change in the Pacific region.

China's more preponderant role in the area figured large in the exchanges. The Japanese, still groping for a better China policy, are trying to find out how they can fit into the multipolar diplomacy which has emerged since Nixon's summit talks in Peking and Moscow.

Kissinger has been questioned on the American position with particular urgency in view of the coming changeover in Japanese leadership. Prime Minister Eisako Sato is expected to retire soon.

Whoever replaces him is almost sure to move closer to Peking. The Japanese want to know, in this case, what the United States intends to do about the security treaty and about the Nationalist Chinese on Taiwan. Kissinger does not RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — The death toll passed 200 Sunday as people in the scenic Black Hills of South Dakota began identifying their dead and cleaning away the debris from savage flooding that left hundreds still missing and damage in the millions of dollars.

Civil Defense officials said the death count had reached 208, but feared the count would go higher. Relatives reported 500 persons still unaccounted for in the area.

Rapid City, a resort city of 43,000 about 20 miles north of Mt. Rushmore National Memorial, bore the brunt of the wall of water created when extraordinarily heavy rains forced the earthen Canyon Lake Dam to give way and Rapid Creek to overflow its banks.

National Guardsmen and volunteers joined in the search for more bodies in the flood-stricken southwestern portion of the state, declared a national disaster area Saturday by President Nixon. The designation made the area eligible for immediate federal aid.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers predicted damage would reach $100 million. Homes were splintered, cars and mobile homes scattered about like toys by the flood waters.

Persons of all ages were cleaning debris and hauling it away with every available truck Sunday. Meanwhile, they also combed through the wreckage for more bodies. Many of the workers were standing in water to their knees.

The Pennington County Health Department administered typhoid and tetanus shots to the survivors.

Gov. Richard Kneip, who toured the flood ravaged area Saturday and Sunday, said the final death toll may not be known for a week. He called the flooding the "worst disaster to strike this state."

"There are so many areas that have not been searched for bodies," the governor said. "In many instances we'll just have to wait for the water to subside so we can dig into the rubble."

Sen. George McGovern left the presidential campaign trail to fly to his home state to survey damages to Rapid City and surrounding areas. He called the scene "incredible destruction and desolation ... it goes beyond what anyone can comprehend."

The Rapid City water system remained inoperable Sunday. Drinking water was brought to designated places in the city from nearby Ellsworth Air Force Base.

Long distance telephone communications remained difficult and natural gas service was virtually non-existent.

Police said some instances of looting were reported after flooding Friday night and early Saturday. Mayor Donald Barnett, did not declare martial law but ordered the arrest of sight-seers. He later asked for 1,500 military policemen to assist local officers early Sunday afternoon.

His office said no word had yet been received on the request.

Rapid City Residents Take Disaster In Stride

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — The residents of Rapid City are handling the worst disaster in the state's history with the self-reliance and serenity that characterized the frontiersmen who settled this remote plains area a century ago.

Since the flood struck Friday night, leaving more than 200 persons dead, Rapid City has been without drinking water, without gas, without plumbing facilities and faced with the sad task of searching for hundreds of persons still reported missing.

Civil Defense officials say 3,000 or more are homeless. In the basement of the Pennington County Courthouse many persons come offering a room in their home for a family or a child.

Surrounding communities have set up shelter areas to house hundreds of the victims.

Civil Defense officials have so many volunteers they turn some away.

The Red Cross served more than 500 meals Sunday in the Rapid City High School.

"The people are bringing in bread, milk, canned juices, soda pop. They are terrific. We have plenty of food," said Mrs. Al Thomas, a Red Cross volunteer.

In the high school cafeteria, two Red Cross workers were sorting hundreds of clothing items.

"I can't believe it," said Mrs. Don Murphy. "We have clothes from Nebraska, Wyoming and North Dakota. People went out to the stores and brought in baby diapers and bottles."

Joy Medley, a Rapid City Salvation Army officer, whose husband died in the flood, said: "More than 5,000 people had visited the Salvation Army's emergency facilities for clothing and food."

Along the streets where Rapid Creek's flood waters devastated homes and killed hundreds, volunteer workers sank in muck up to their chests seeking the bodies of victims.

Dozens of nurses showed up at the high school to administer typhoid and tetanus shots to persons who swallowed the rank flood waters.

Drinking water was brought to designated locations in the city from Ellsworth Air Force Base, 10 miles away.

At Bennett-Clarkson Hospital, which was evacuated after the flood swamped the main floor, volunteers sorted X-ray negatives on the lawn and other workers collected hospital records in green plastic bags.

There were few smiles, and the sound of laughter was missing as the residents of Rapid City picked up the pieces of their community, but there was no shortage of helping hands to do it.

U.S. Jets Destroy Hydroelectric Plant; Air Strikes Aimed At Red River Valley

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. jets have destroyed a hydroelectric plant capable of producing 75 per cent of North Vietnam's power requirements, a U.S. spokesman announced Sunday.

The plant was wrecked Saturday in the first attacks of the war against Hanoi's hydroelectric installations. The strikes were aimed at the strategic Red River Valley.

More special air raids were carried out Sunday by Air Force fighter-bombers against scores of railroad cars isolated by cuts along North Vietnam's northeast and northwest rail lines to China, informants disclosed. The sources described the raids as "successful." They were the first strikes reported against cars themselves since the resumption of bombing April 6.

The informants estimated that as many as 600 railroad cars trying to move south from China with war materials were strung out along the network, severed by weeks of U.S. air strikes. Most were reported on sidings. Earlier, air force F4 Phantoms cut the Lang Dang railroad bridge and the Tam Dan highway bridge along the northeast rail line about 60 miles above Hanoi, spokesmen said.

A broadcast dispatch of Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency said three U.S. aircraft were shot down and several pilots captured Sunday.

On the ground in the South, a U.S. adviser was killed in an enemy shelling attack around An Loc and two other Americans were wounded in a mortar attack near Da Nang.

Air Force officers said 2,000-pound bombs guided by laser beams were used against the Lang Chi plant, 63 miles northwest of Hanoi, to insure that the dam, 300 feet away, would be spared.

Informants said the attack on the plant was approved by Washington but the dam was declared off limits.

The surprise strike, carried out by fewer than 10 Air Force F4 Phantoms, marked the first attack against hydroelectric power plants since the United States started the bombing of North Vietnam in 1965, the U.S. command said.

Pilots reported their bombs made direct hits on the transformer building, collapsing the roof of the 400 by 150-foot rectangular structure. Photographs taken by reconnaissance jets showed damaged transformer equipment, officers

Four Escape In Plane Crash

Reports were Sunday evening that four persons escaped injury when their light plane crashed on take-off from a field near the Busti-Chandlers Valley rd.

State Police said the Piper Tri-Pacer was piloted by John Sanders of RD3, Sugar Grove. Three passengers were not identified. Civil Aeronautics Administration officials were investigating and the aviation inspector for the State Police will also investigate. Damage was reported at $5,000 but no further details were available.

Elderly Corry Couple Die In Two-Car Crash

An elderly couple from Corry were dead on arrival Sunday, June 11, 1972 at Titusville Hospital following a two-car crash at 2 p.m. on Rt. 8 two miles south of Titusville.

Dead are Justin R. Butters, 70, and his wife, Mae Butters, 71, of RD1, Corry. Andrew A. Antosz, 48 of Pittsburgh, the driver of the other vehicle was treated and released.

State Police at Franklin said Butters was southbound on Rt. 8 and came upon a line of cars stopped to make a left turn. He swerved across the road to avoid a rear end collision and was struck broadside by the northbound vehicle driven by Antosz. Both vehicles were totally demolished, police said.

Justin R. Butters was born Oct. 23, 1901 in Corry, the son of Justin and Clemma Raymond Butters. He was retired from the Raymond Manufacturing Co. He was a member of the United Methodist Church of Corry, Corry Lodge No. 365.

Eight Burned Following Explosion In Tent

Eight persons were burned Sunday near Tionesta, two seriously, when their tent burned following a gasoline explosion. The accident happened at the camping area below Tionesta Dam.

David Gray 6 and Dennis Gray, 5, of Beaver Falls, were transferred from Titusville Hospital to West Penn Hospital Burn Clinic. They suffered second and third degree burns over 75 per cent of their body.

Treated at Titusville Hospital for first degree burns were:

Barbara Gray, 38, the mother, Eugina Gray, 11, Eugene Gray, 11, Rodney Gray, 7, Ann Marie Gray, 11 months, and David H. Gray, 32, of RD1, Industry, an uncle.

State police at Tionesta said the mother and uncle about 6 a.m. were heating coffee on a two burner gasoline stove. David Gray at the same time filled a gasoline lantern. The flames ignited and caused a flash fire. The tank of the stove ruptured and spewed flaming gasoline throughout the tent.

The Weather Report

Partly cloudy, warmer today, high in the mid 60s to low 70s. Cloudy, warmer tonight, and tomorrow, chance of thundershowers. Low tonight in the mid 40s to low 50s, highs Tuesday in the 70s. Winds southwesterly 5-15 mph today. Probability of precipitation 20 per cent.

South Vietnam, to strangle supply lines and to wreck the transportation system.

North Vietnam has acknowledged it is having "very difficult" economic problems because of the resumption of U.S. bombing April 6 and the widening of targets to include industrial plants.

But Hanoi's official Communist newspaper, Nhan Dan, said a week ago that "even if the enemy succeeds in the bombing destruction of our cities and our large industrial installations, they can never paralyze our economy to the point of preventing our survival and our ability to supply the South."

Then on Sunday the paper doesn't mean the lights will be out in Hanoi. They have a power plant right inside Hanoi.

The United States has said the aim of the bombing campaign is to knock out North Vietnamese plants that are supporting Hanoi's 74-day-old offensive in

Libya's Leader Says Nation Helping Irish Republican Army

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Libya's strongest leader, Col. Muammar Kadafi, declared Sunday his oil-rich nation is sending arms, money and volunteers to help the Irish Republican Army against British forces in Northern Ireland.

He also assailed the United States and Britain as the U.S. and British ambassadors walked out on his speech in Tripoli, Libya's capital, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

Kadafi also accused the United States of backing Israeli occupation of Arab territories conquered during the 1967 war.

The flamboyant, 29-year-old leader vowed to prepare the whole Arab region for an all-out war of liberation by the end of 1972, escalate the struggle and "fight Britain and the United States on their own lands," Kadafi, who recently announced his government would lead a movement to spread Islam throughout the world, also said the Libyan regime is helping Muslims against the government in the Philippines. There have been Moslem-Christian clashes there recently.

"Britain and the United States will pay dearly for the wrongs and perfidy they inflicted on us," Kadafi said in a speech marking the second anniversary of the evacuation of U.S. forces from Wheelus Air Force Base.

He offered no details on his claims of aid. The British administration in Northern Ireland said it has no evidence to confirm that Libya is supplying arms to the IRA, but the Foreign Office in London said it will still study Kadafi's speech closely.

"We've seen reports of the speech," said a spokesman. "If they are correct, this is a very grave admission."

The speech was broadcast by Libyan radio and monitored in Beirut. In it, Kadafi also renewed his pledge of volunteers and money for Palestinian guerrilla groups fighting Israel.

He said his government will pay a statement of need for a taxi service.

"The sacred message of all faithful Moslems and patriotic Arabs today is to fight Britain and the United States," said Kadafi, "and if the two powers choose to fight us here in the Middle East, then we will fight them on their own lands."

"I swear by the end of this year, 1972, the wrongs and perfidy are not corrected and erased, then I will escalate the struggle against Britain and the United States. I will fight them with all the power we have and can have on their own lands."

Attending the anniversary celebration were Presidents Idi Amin of Uganda, Houari Boumedienne of Algeria, Jaafar el Numari of Sudan and Prime Minister Aziz Sidiqy of Egypt.

As Kadafi spoke to cheering crowds, a formation of French-built Mirage warplanes swooped low overhead.

"Those planes are piloted by Libyans," Kadafi said. He paid tribute to Pakistanis who he said helped build the Libyan air force.

Kadafi criticized the United States for helping Israel against the Arabs and accused Britain of helping Iran occupy three Persian Gulf islands late last year.

"America still has air bases in Morocco," he added. "We will fight the Americans wherever they are."

At this point the crowd shouted, "We want unity, We want unity... one Arab nation, one Arab army, one Arab battle."

"Yes, yes," reacted Kadafi. "Arab unity is inevitable. And Arab region into flames to burn the enemy and their backers."

Kadafi voiced his "wholehearted backing" of Iraq's nationalization of the Western-owned Iraq Petroleum Company. He recently nationalized British oil holdings in Libya.

appear to have given them any hard answer on the Taiwan question.

Though he had only a few hours sleep Friday night before embarking on his intensive round of talks, Kissinger appeared fresh and jaunty in the witting Tokyo heat Sunday night. He came out of each session with a smile and a handshake for the participants.

His pledge for more consultation found an echo in a report issued Sunday after a four-day meeting of influential Japanese and American leaders and scholars.

The U.S. and Japanese governments, the report said, should cooperate in urban studies, pollution control, health areas, welfare programs and study of domestic political processes.

The participants also urged the two governments to promote exchanges of educational personnel and hold middle-level official meetings more frequently to improve deteriorating economic relations.

The report was adopted at the end of the Third Japanese-American Assembly, attended by 60 Japanese and American leaders including George Ball, former U.S. under-secretary of State, and Nakasone.

The report said the American initiative in relations with China was in the interest of both Japan and the United States, but the participants also agreed that the U.S. government was "maladroit" in handling the change's effects in Japan.

Pen Alumnus To Rehabilitate PSU Student Government

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Michael Shields, an alumnus of Rockview State Penitentiary, is determined to rehabilitate the undergraduate student government at Penn State.

Elected president of the 20,000 undergraduates at the main campus here on April 28, Shields promised his constituents a program that would instigate changes made long ago at other universities.

Some of the goals include abolition of restricted hours for dormitory visits and more student control of money set aside for campus activities.

"We're getting student senators to believe they can do more than attend meetings," Shields told the Philadelphia Inquirer. "We're looking at the basic issues—food, coed housing and investigation of campus security—issues that control our lives in respect to the community."

Shields, 22, was convicted of aggravated robbery and conspiracy in 1969 and served 19 months of a six-year term.

"I don't want to hide this," Shields explained. "There was a robbery committed. I wasn't there. I did receive $300 from the robbery—a holdup of a night deposit. The conspiracy part is that I gave another guy information on when the store closed."

He maintains that his parole status has no bearing on his capabilities as a student president.

"It had very little to do with what I was saying or promoting and I saw no reason to bring it into the campaign."

Actually, an estimated half of the student body was aware of Shields' alma mater in nearby Bellefonte, since he spoke openly on parole issues while a student senator.

"It's a distinction a lot of people were upset about," he added.

Just last week, a group calling itself "Pennsylvania Residents and Taxpayers," began passing a petition around campus calling Shields' election "an insult" to every state resident.

Much of the controversy surrounding the third year, B-plus student, stems from his recent encounters with the law.

During the campaign in March, Shields pleaded guilty to a shoplifting charge and paid $65 in fines for a loaf of bread, a packet of cheese and a bottle of coffee. The news was not widespread since classes were recessed that week.

It was his first parole violation and he received a warning from his parole officer.

"It was a dumb thing to do," Shields commented.

Two weeks after his election, Shields again found himself under public scrutiny.

He postdated a $10 check at a variety store on Sunday but didn't deposit the necessary money in his bank account until Tuesday, too late to cover the check.

The long-haired, bearded student was charged with writing a fraudulent check and was committed May 24 to Centre County Prison for 34 hours as a disciplinary measure. Last week, he was cleared of the charge.

His parole officer's action is considered routine according to Richard W. Lindsey, state parole board chairman. "An agent feels a man is getting into difficulty he can lock the man up," he said.

While on his four-year parole, Shields receives his tuition and room and board expenses from the State Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation. He also gets $260 each term for his post in the student senate.

Shields began his college career while at Camp Hill State Prison where he took courses offered by Harrisburg Community College. After his transfer to Rockview, he attended credit classes taught by Penn State instructors.

Labeled "charismatic" by students and faculty who have worked with him, Shields last year built a reputation as one of a few student senators with concerns other than those dealing with social and athletic activities.

He is now involved with a campus meal plan and student representation on University Park's borough council.

According to his associates, Shields is usually polite.

"You don't go to an administrator and say, 'We demand our rights!'" he told an informal bull session last week. "That's ridiculous and it's not effective."

"You come armed with facts and figures and a reasonable alternative that comes from research."

He admits that his background, along with his more serious senate work, may make his image different from other student body leaders.

"I think I'm the most radical student government president this university ever had."

Newsman Brawl; Police Almost Get Wrong Guy

Bradford police got pie on their face at Tullah Hanley's "Happening" in downtown Bradford this past weekend when they were too quick to place the blame for a fight.

Several hundred newsmen and art dealers were Fabulous Tullah's guests Saturday evening for the grand opening of the Hanley Creative Youth Center. A number of young people mingled with the guests throughout the evening.

There was a scuffle at the doorway to the center about 2 a.m. as the party was giving its last gasp. The fight started among several newsmen who couldn't quite handle the Black and White Tullah had provided by the gallons.

Apparently anticipating trouble, the police quickly moved in; and they were equally quick to place the blame. They threatened to cart one of the youth club workers off to jail.

The long-haired, head-banded youth merely had tried to prevent the fracas.

The six-footer was ushering the gentlemen out the door when the fight started. He shouted, "You guys are gonna foul up everything we have been working weeks for. They're waiting for a fight so they can close the club down before it opens."

As he shouted, he was urging the men through the door. The police grabbed the youth and the adults went unquestioned. They threatened to "let him cool it in jail" when he insisted that he had nothing to do with the fight.

A newsmen who observed it all finally convinced the police that it was an adult brawl—and that the youth had been on his best behavior throughout the evening.

Tullah had charged during a news conference earlier in the evening that there were many people in Bradford who were against the youth center, where she proposes to get "everybody high on youth."

The former furniture store is decorated with paintings valued at over $250,000. They are from the estimated $2-3 million collection left by her husband, Dr. Thomas Edward Hanley, who died three years ago.

Blind Prisoner Says He'd Rather Be Dead

HUNTINGDON, Pa. (AP) — A 37-year-old inmate at the State Correctional Institution here, blind for five years, says he "would rather be dead" than stay alive in prison.

James Harbold, a Dover, Pa. man who was convicted in 1962 of murdering his girlfriend, now sits alone in his cell, fearful of "running the gauntlet" of a host of unknown and unseen dangers outside it.

Harbold was blinded when he drank what he thought was "white lightning" purchased from another prisoner. The "white lightning" turned out to be cleaning fluid.

Since then he has been trying to have his life sentence commuted to relieve him of what he considers cruel and unusual punishment.

His face scarred from running into obstacles, Harbold told a Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin reporter that he hadn't been outside his cell block since last July 4.

"I got busted in the face by a softball and haven't been outside since," he said.

He also told of being attacked, sometimes homosexually, by fellow prisoners who took his handicap for a weakness.

"I may be blind physically, but I'm not mentally," the former Marine said. "They come up behind me, take my cane... a lot are just punks and I just give them the back of my hand."

Although he has been blind for five years, Harbold still acts like a newly blinded person, according to Joseph Perry, a home teacher for the Bureau of Visually Handicapped in Altoona.

"When a person is blinded he feels persecuted, left out and feels that his friends have deserted him," Perry, who is also blind, said.

"Prisoners tend to be less considerate than the public. They're a petty, selfish lot. They don't give a damn about you, frankly. So a blind guy would have a harder time."

Huntingdon superintendent Erskind Deramus said "Harbold should be in some sort of special facility somewhere where he can feel more comfortable."

But Deramus also said that Harbold's charges about maltreatment at the hands of guards and other prisoners were "mostly" unfounded.

"The authorities all talk about my attitude," Harbold said. "They got 100 labels on me... arrogant, paranoid... if I am, I have right to be."

"I volunteered to Temple Hospital for neurosurgery—experimental brain operations—but have been told I can't donate my body."

"I'm ready to die rather than go on with this torture, and they might as well do something worthwhile with my body."

Society Has Created New System Of Social Classes

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — State Secretary of Education John C. Pittinger said Sunday that American society has "created a new system of social classes, based not directly on birth, not directly on wealth, but on education."

Pittinger, speaking at the 104th annual commencement at Lehigh University, warned of "nasty consequences" stemming from such a class system.

"Since the quality of one's education is determined chiefly by the parents one is clever enough to select, and the community they are lucky enough to land in," he said, "it—the education—falls a good deal short of the democracy of talent which we thought we had within our grasp."

Pittinger also said in such a situation education "tends to become a political issue in ways which are not healthy."

The education secretary, himself a lawyer and former legislative aide to Gov. Milton Shapp before replacing Dr. David Kurtzman early this year, said the past year has been an enlightening one in society's educational attitudes.

"The academic year 1971-72," he noted, "will go down in history as the year when American thinking about education turned a corner and ran into some unpleasant facts—namely, that school districts spend vastly unequal amounts of money to educate children and that the amount of money they spend is directly related to the wealth of the community itself."

Pittinger said until recently, "Americans have gotten away with thinking about the problem of the relationship between education and social justice by variations on the theme of 'equal opportunity.'"

These variations, he said, "had one thing in common: they tended to ignore social differences and to assume that if two youngsters had access to the same kinds of schools, teachers, and books, we could all sleep with good consciences. This assumption no longer works."

Pittinger cited the following reasons why that assumption is invalid:

—Education has become a passport to jobs, money, power and prestige;

—Penalties attached to the lack of formal education have grown rapidly;

—The most important facts in determining the achievement of a child are who the child's parents are, and who the parents of the child's classmates are.

Misleading Maneuver

Critics of the nation's medical care system are quick to point out that according to the United Nations' Demographic yearbook the United States ranks 13th behind "progressive" countries in infant mortalities. In spite of the fact that the introductory chapter clearly states that the ratings of different countries should not be used for comparison.

Writing in the magazine "Private Practice," Dr. Jack Schreiber explains why.

In the United States, for instance, the doctor says, a baby is listed as a live birth if there is any sign of life, such as a heartbeat in the umbilical cord. Other countries do not record a live birth unless the child takes a breath and others do not list a live birth until the birth has been registered, sometimes weeks after birth.

In the U.S., the responsibility of reporting births and deaths is clearly assigned to the physician. In many countries of the world this is a responsibility of the parents or the clergy.

"With no uniform method of measurement," the doctor says, "comparing infant mortality figures is like comparing apples with potatoes."

Then he goes on to say that even if there were uniform methods of measure the figures, infant mortality statistics are not a good index of the health care delivery system. Infant mortality is a social problem, often the result of poor housing, poverty, malnutrition, ignorance and racial ethnic differences. The number of physicians and hospitals, or how medicine is practiced, can only contribute a limited effort toward reducing the overall total.

American medicine ranks high in other areas of disease control and, in general, we have more physicians and hospitals per capita, according to the doctor, than several other "advanced" countries.

This points up again the "pick the weakest link" technique so often employed today by those who attack, whether it be religion, government, big business, the free enterprise system, or what-have-you. It's employed as an effective way of gaining a point without the bother of being too convincing. And it's as dishonest as it is misleading.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—For years, Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y., has held the purse strings of four federal departments with the tight clutch of a miser.

The highest potentates of the State, Justice and Commerce departments must go through Rooney's wringer before they can get any funds out of Congress. Even Supreme Court justices must step down from their lofty perches and come before Rooney's House Appropriations Subcommittee, hat in hand.

But the crusty old curmudgeon miraculously is transformed into old Saint Nick himself when the special pleaders seek his favors.

He has been a jolly benefactor, for example, of the shipping interests. Rarely has he held back a dime from the maritime subsidy program which keeps the shipping companies afloat.

In election years, the shippers pay him back, in kind, with financial assistance. For instance, his Washington campaign treasurer this year is Nicholas Pasco, a lobbyist for the Moore-McCormack Lines, which received $14 million in federal subsidies last year.

It has become an election-year ritual for the shipping companies to pass the hat for Rooney. It's too early to trace down all the contributions, but we've located a $250 donation already from Spyros S. Skouras, chairman of Prudential Grace Lines. This company last year collected $40.3 million in federal subsidies.

In the past, the shippers' enthusiasm for Rooney has landed them in trouble. The Pacific Far East Lines and American President Lines have been convicted of making illegal contributions to him from their corporate tills.

But the fines were nothing compared to the whopping subsidies that the two companies squeezed out of the taxpayers. Pacific Far East got $11 million; American President made off with $33 million.

Rooney helpfully raised the Commerce Department's requested appropriation for American President by $7 million. He said he thought the company needed it.

Seafair Ship Building, which has also received federal assistance with Rooney's support, has made billboards for his current campaign.

Footnote: Rooney's subcommittee has such power over the government departments that he was able to save Charles Kriger from losing his job in the Small Business Administration. Kriger's wife, Henrietta, subsequently donated $500 to Rooney's campaign in 1970 and another $250 in 1972.

WASHINGTON WHIRL

BOYLE'S ASSETS—Tony Boyle, boss of the United Mine Workers, is about to be sentenced by a federal judge for making illegal campaign contributions. He could be fined up to $120,000. Despite his $50,000 a year salary, however, Boyle may claim he can't pay such a fine. The reason: he quietly transferred his assets, estimated at $250,000, into his wife's name last December before his trial.

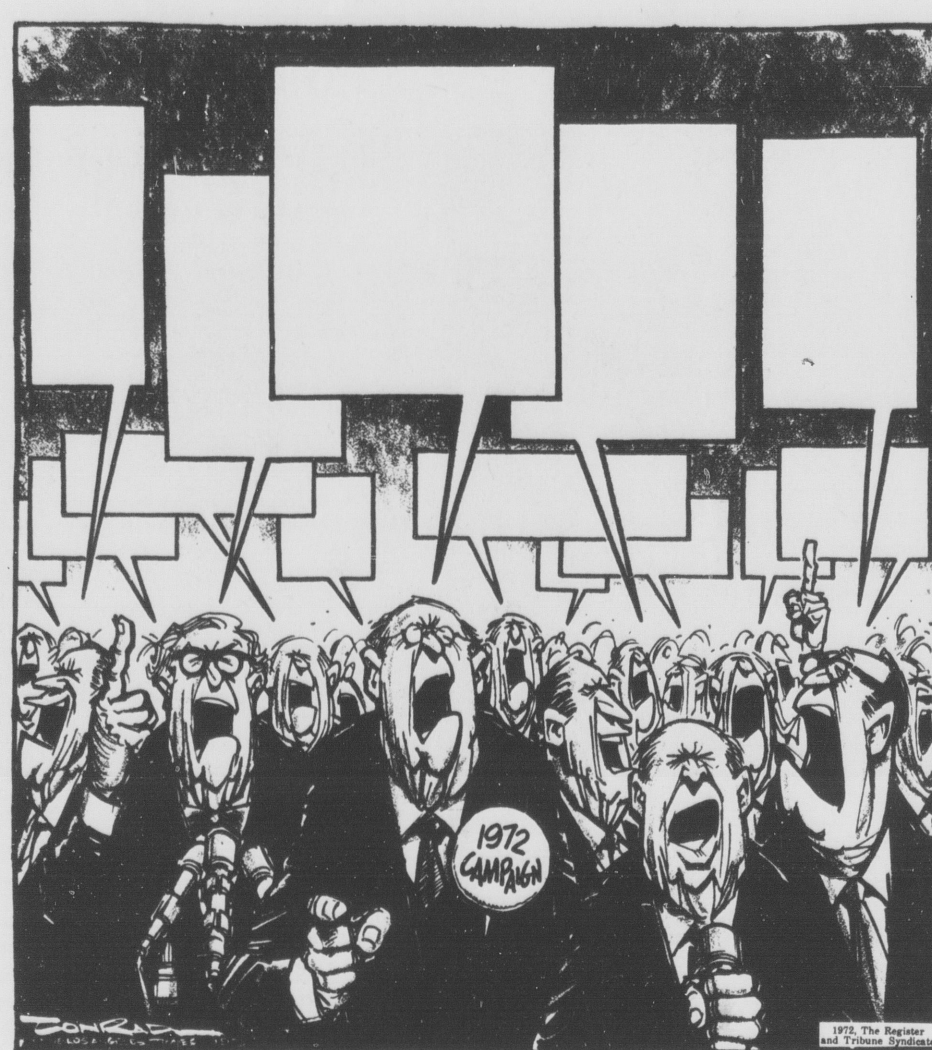

GROMYKO'S HUMOR—As evidence of the cordial atmosphere at the recent Moscow summit meeting, both the Russians and Americans lightened the negotiations with good-natured kidding. From party chief Leonid Brezhnev on down, the Russians showed they could laugh at themselves. Even Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who has one of the most celebrated sour pussies in the world, exhibited a sense of humor. At one point, he offered mischievously: "We'll throw Cuba in for good measure." Another time, White House foreign policy adviser Henry Kissinger was ribbing him. "Did you hear, Gromyko, that they launched an SS9 (the Soviet monster missile) and nothing happened?" kidded Kissinger. Gromyko shrugged. "In this country," he said, "nothing works."

SECRET QUIP—Senator Cliff Hansen, R-Wyo., a tanned rancher who has contended in the past with conservationists, had some caustic remarks for them at a secret meeting of the Senate Interior committee. The only difference between an environmentalist and a developer, grumped Hansen, is that the environmentalist built his mountain cabin last year.

ITT SECURITY—The embattled International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. has issued a special booklet entitled "Security of Proprietary Information." Beside a picture of a man carrying a batch of documents into the shredding room, the booklet says: "ITT proprietary information should not be treated as ordinary waste. You should not dispose of it in a waste basket. If you do, unauthorized access may result."

PARAGUAY REACTS—Paraguay recalled its ambassador to the United States, Dr. Roque Avila, for consultation immediately after our charges that the top ranks of his government are filled with heroin traffickers. Avila had recommended privately to his bosses in Asuncion that August Ricard, a notorious heroin trafficker now in a Paraguayan prison, be extradited to the United States. Meanwhile, we have learned that Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., who is seeking to cut off $7.5 million in foreign aid to Paraguay because of its drug smuggling, has spoken with the U.S. Ambassador to Paraguay, Raymond Ylitalo. The ambassador assured the congressman that Ricard would soon be sent to the United States to face narcotics charges.

FALSE CHARGE—Bart Schwartz, author of a book called "Nixon Will Lose in '72," has been reported by the Better Business Bureau to be a ghostwriter for the Democratic National Committee. The BBB has also charged that the Democrats financed the book. Both charges are false. They were made in an erroneous report to the Milwaukee Journal's advertising department by the local BBB office.

Promises, promises

The Pennsylvania Story

PAVE Helps Veterans

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Recently in Dade County, Florida a judge set aside the conviction of a young black man who had been found guilty of the armed robbery of a liquor store. The man was poor, out of work and trying to support a wife and two children.

He was also a Vietnam veteran.

The man had looked for a job, but hadn't been able to find one. The family had literally no money. He didn't want to commit a crime, but he couldn't sit by and watch his children starve either.

The judge considered all of this and decided that these extenuating circumstances were sufficient to overturn the conviction. He found the young man a position as a medical technology trainee; a position where he would be paid while he was still being trained.

The circumstances surrounding the young man are not unusual. The action of the judge is.

In no other war in the history of this nation have we sent young men away to fight and then forgotten about them so completely when they returned home.

Pennsylvania is trying to combat this injustice through PAVE, the Program to Advance Veterans' Education, a part of the Council for Human Services. PAVE helps direct Vietnam veterans into higher education institutions enabling them to make full use of GI Bill benefits available to them.

At this time only about 13.5 per cent of the eligible Vietnam veterans are enrolled in either four-year, community or junior colleges. Overall, only about 28.3 per cent of the vets are enrolled in any kind of post-high school training program.

Gary Wood, director of the program and himself a Vietnam veteran, says there are a number of reasons for these low figures.

Mr. Wood says the present GI Bill is not sufficient to meet the needs of the vet. He points out that neither the federal government nor the individual educational institutions have risen to the vets' needs as they did for the World War II and the Korean War veteran.

There are other problems, too. For one thing the vets, to a large extent, are not aware of the programs which are open to them. On top of this, many vets have trouble qualifying for the programs because of poor grades or the lack of a high school diploma.

These problems were created mainly by the draft system which allowed those, in effect, who had the money to avoid the draft for the length of their college careers. The vets who now need the training are the poor and for the most part the inadequately prepared.

PAVE is trying to help vets overcome all of these problems. There are currently 69 PAVE Counseling Centers providing outreach services throughout the Commonwealth. The centers are manned by about 150 veterans volunteering their services to PAVE.

At the centers the vets obtain information concerning schools and training programs. The counselors also advise on how to obtain high school diplomas or make up deficiencies in the high school curricula so that they qualify for certain schools or programs.

If a veteran comes to a center with a particular school or job goal in mind, the counselors are able to point him toward that goal, and if he has no set goals, the counselor can help determine what he wants to pursue.

"We have a number of established channels through which we work," Mr. Wood told this columnist. "Many of the job requests are channeled through the Bureau of Employment Security and the PAVE centers have excellent relations with most of the schools in the state. We can help the vets obtain and complete admissions forms for the schools and then follow them right through their college or training careers."

Wallace 3rd-Party Contest Still Strong Possibility

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON—If George C. Wallace decides to run for the presidency again this year as a third-party candidate, he'll apparently be able to get on the ballot in all but a few states.

But disagreements exist over some state laws that might keep the Alabama governor out of the running. His advisers remain noncommittal about a third-party candidacy. And Wallace himself, critically injured by gunshots at a May 15 campaign rally, has had nothing public to say on the subject as he recovers in a Silver Spring, Md., hospital.

As the candidate of the American Independent Party in 1968, Wallace carried five southern states and won 13.5 per cent of the popular vote nationwide. Through hard work and effective organization, he was able to get his name on the ballot in all 50 states.

PITFALLS IN 1972

His followers concede that it would be difficult if not impossible to duplicate that feat this year for the American Party. ("Independent" has been dropped from the title.)

The man in charge of placing the party and its nominee on as many ballots as possible is William K. Shearer, a former California publisher and a member of the party's national executive committee. Shearer said the party is already on the ballot in 18 states: California, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee and Utah.

In another 27 states, Shearer told Congressional Quarterly, "something still must be done, but it will not be too difficult, and the effort will be minimal." In this category he listed Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Shearer was more pessimistic about five states that appear to pose serious if not insurmountable problems. Filing deadlines for third-party or independent candidates have passed in Arkansas and West Virginia. Three other states, he said, have large petition signature requirements: Georgia, 90,000; Massachusetts, 60,000; and Texas, 20,000.

DIFFERENT ASSESSMENTS

Both a researcher for the Democratic National Committee and spokesmen for several secretaries of state challenged some of Shearer's assertions. The researcher said the American Party has filed in only five states: Kentucky, New Jersey, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania. State laws make Wallace ineligible in five other states, the researcher said: Arkansas, Indiana, Maryland, Nebraska and West Virginia.

State officials in Maryland, Nebraska and Indiana indicated Wallace would have difficulty running as an independent or third-party candidate in their states. Shearer questioned the validity of their positions.

"I am familiar with the Maryland statute, and that is not how I interpret the law," he said. "If that is the way they interpret the law—and they're the ones who enforce it—then I would say a judicial test is in order."

CAUTION ON WALLACE

Wallace, the founder and focal point of the American Party, had campaigned strenuously for the Democratic presidential nomination before the attempted assassination left him paralyzed from the waist down. He has won four primaries—in Florida, Tennessee, Maryland and Michigan—and his anti-establishment appeals have earned him more than 300 delegate votes at the Democratic convention in July.

The Wallace staff is cautious about making predictions, clearly waiting to see what kind of leverage their leader will exert at the Democratic convention. Charles S. Snider, Wallace's campaign coordinator, said on national television May 30 that "certainly the possibilities of a third party still loom." But he told Congressional Quarterly a few days later, "That is still the governor's choice. He'll have to make that decision."

The Losers

By James Reston

WASHINGTON—The human side of politics is a terrible and tragic thing, and it has never been more apparent than in the pictures in the newspapers over the last few days.

There on the front pages was the Duchess of Windsor, in her black funeral veil, looking cross during the burial services for her husband at the Queen of England, whom she might have preceded in that role herself.

There also on the front pages was Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts at Arlington Cemetery, kneeling at the grave of his murdered brother Robert, alongside the widow of his other murdered brother, John, on the fourth anniversary of Robert Kennedy's assassination, with Robert Kennedy's widow, Ethel, on the crutches and her flock of children in the background.

Suddenly, we had a glimpse these last few days of the accidents and losers and might-have-beens of political life. Ed Muskie and Hubert Humphrey grinning bravely alongside George McGovern, as if they had won. Muskie, relaxed in defeat, showing the amiable side of his character at the National Press Club, which somehow he lost in the struggle of the primary elections, and making his audience wonder and even regret.

And finally there was George Wallace in the newspaper pictures, with his hairy and muscular arms and a bullet in his spine, promising to go to the Democratic convention at Miami Beach, paralyzed or not, to fight on for the Presidency of the United States.

The newspaper reporters and photographers put all this down, but it is really beyond us. We celebrate the winners and leave the losers to the novelists, who are off somewhere else, and, oddly, pay little attention to the human drama of American politics.

What do they think in the night, these losers? What of the Duchess of Windsor from Baltimore, who cost her lover the throne of England, going back from his grave at Windsor to her refuge outside Paris? What of Edward Kennedy, the heir apparent of the family dynasty and the hope of the Democratic party, who lost it all at the dike bridge on Chappaquiddick?

Muskie is a less complicated and tragic figure. He lost his lead for the Democratic Presidential nomination maybe because of his good rather than his bad qualities, and he almost seems relieved by his miss. Humphrey is different. On his record, and on the judgment of most of his colleagues in the Senate, he was more qualified to be President than any other man in his party. And he knew it. And he wanted it so badly, and he blew his chances, not once but twice, and ended up denouncing an old friend for the "radicalism" he had fought for most of his political life.

But they go on, these losers, without grieving too much. Most of them rise by accident beyond their early dreams and adjust to their defeats. Barry Goldwater is a happy man in the Senate now and can even joke about losing by a record vote to Lyndon Johnson, who adopted the Goldwater Vietnam policy he denounced. Bob Taft and Adlai Stevenson lost the Presidency without bitterness, and now their sons are in the Senate dreaming vaguely that maybe in the end they'll make it, but really hoping they won't.

It is the wives of the Presidential candidates who have the hardest time. They have to keep smiling when they want to cry. They know their men better than all the politicians, reporters and voters in the Republic.

Some of them, but not many, truly believe that the old man is really fit for the Presidency. Muriel Humphrey is a case in point. A very few of them think their husbands would be a disaster. Ellen Stevenson thought so about Adlai, yet that was more of a criticism of her than of him. But most of them go along because they love and believe in their guys, and they hate the thought of winning for themselves but struggle through the battle anyway.

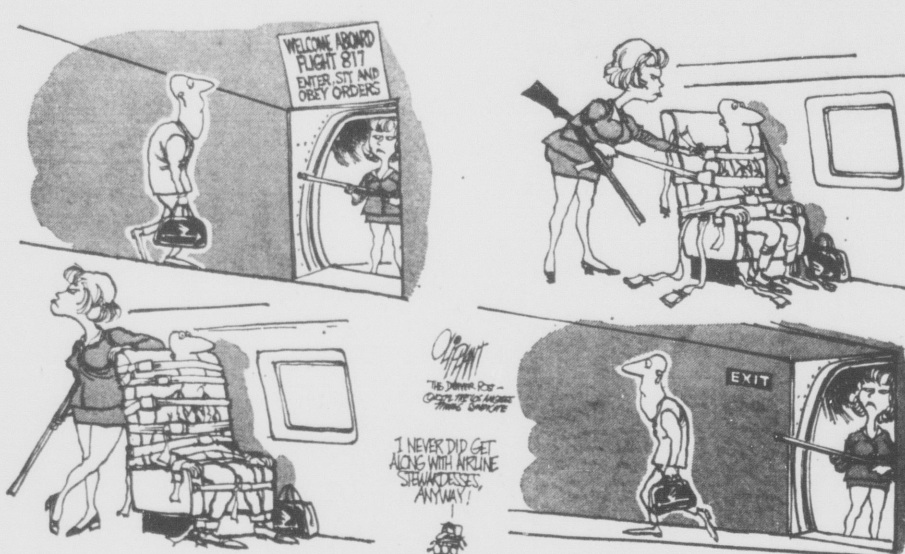

Ladybird Johnson didn't want her husband to accept the Vice Presidency from John Kennedy, and was wrong, and she wanted him to get out of the Presidency in 1968 to save his life, and was undoubtedly right. It would be interesting to know what Lyndon Johnson thinks about all this now. He is very silent. And very proper. But very proud and probably very sure he was right all along and could have saved the country and the Democratic party from their present anxieties.

This is why politics in America or anywhere else retains its fascination. It is so human, and full of conflict and accident and surprise, and the present Presidential campaign underscores the point.

Who could have guessed that Richard Nixon would run for reelection in 1972 as a Keynesian, with a four-year deficit of over $90 billion, boasting about his wage and price controls and his friendship with Peking and Moscow? Or that George McGovern, the Democratic preacher's son from the conservative Republican state of South Dakota, could have knocked over the Democratic party with the aid of an unbelieving army of young recruits?

It is a surprising and even preposterous proposition, but that's the way it is—as goofy and wonderful and surprising as the human race—and it's too bad we don't have a great novelist to reduce all this diversity to identity and capture the melody of what is going on in this town.

The Skyjack Solution

The Readers Speak

Editor:

I recently spent the worst weekend of the year in the woods about 3 miles from the Kinzua Dam. We had camped at the Kinzua Dam for the last three years and looked forward to seeing all the friends we had made during this time from different places in our state and other neighboring states again this year on our first outing. I had read different articles from time to time on some of the new rules and regulations that Mr. Ralph Freeman had put upon himself to make concerning the camping at the dam. I never realized that he could mess up so many campers lives with trying to make his dam a better place. Mr. Freeman is constantly referring to the Kinzua Dam as "MY DAM". I cannot understand why this man has taken it upon himself to be master and ruler of all who want to visit the area, which I must add is very heavily advertised as the ideal vacation land for camping, canoeing, boating, swimming, and fishing. Well, it is a beautiful dam and you can do all the activities as advertised if you can get a campsite at a park. I realize if you come a week early you have a good chance of having a place to park, but I am not that fortunate to have a week extra to sit there and wait until the Holiday comes to me.

Upon arriving at the Kinzua Dam at 4:30 p.m. on Friday, May 26, 1972, there weren't any campsites in the parks available. I decided I would find a ranger and see if he would be opening an overflow area. After 45 minutes of searching, I finally found one ranger in Kiasutha Park. I explained my situation to him and that we had to find a place to set up camp as my children had not yet had any supper. This was approximately 5:30 p.m. and he stated that he might open one overflow area called "Big Rock" at 6:30 on his way home. I then asked him about an area called Dunkle Corners, about 2 miles from Red Bridge Park, and how soon this area would be open as this is where we have camped for these past few years. He said that when Big Rock was full... he just might open up Dunkle Corners. He said he was almost sure he wouldn't need to open that area that evening. I asked if we could wait there at the road turn-off and see if it would be open and I could fix supper for my family. I was then told that if any camper was even suspected of setting up camp anywhere along the road that they would be fined. He told me that the road would be patrolled constantly. I then asked him where he could suggest I set up camp long enough to cook supper and he just said, "I don't know!" Well, Mr. Freeman, I don't know either what you and your troop are trying to prove. I then went back a dirt road and found a place to camp back near the back waters of the Kinzua Dam Creek which runs through Westline, Pa. This is the first year that we couldn't be near the water and enjoy the dam itself. I have a fully contained trailer and I have never left any garbage of any kind near your waters, nor have any one of our group which consists of 11 units. We have picked up garbage left there during winter every year that the sportsman leaves and then the campers take the blame. Why don't you chain the sportsman out too? Every where you could pull a unit in to be near the dam is chained off! Is this the only way you can show your authority?

Everyday from Friday night at midnight until we left the area on Monday, my husband and I checked along the dam to see if they were enforcing any of these rules and regulations that Mr. Freeman talked of in this very paper. We saw campers, tents, and boats, everywhere. They were parked in the very place I was told I could not park. A ranger passed them by while I was talking to one camper and looking around but kept going on his way home not caring all of a sudden who was parked where. He didn't fine them nor did any other ranger. The campers had fires going all along the roads and had set up their camp for the weekend anywhere they could get off the road. Not one camper was fined for camping in these areas. If Mr. Freeman wants to make up these rules then why doesn't he enforce them with everyone? Can't he handle the job he stated he was going to do? Seems to me if you going to make rules and regulations, Mr. Freeman, you should see that they are enforced. Where were the rangers at all weekend? Where was the Mr. Freeman? Was he in his reserved spot at the Red Bridge Park? Or was he out in the boat enjoying what he has stopped so many other tax payers from enjoying?

The campers have been put down for destroying the beauty of the dam and therefore Mr. Freeman is closing up many areas. Naturally, there are those few who have left garbage or who have used wooded areas for outdoor bathrooms which most campers DETEST. Well, Mr. Freeman, if you are going to turn the campers away from the Kinzua Dam then turn them all away. Stop advertising the Kinzua Dam as the ideal vacation land for all. Seems to me Mr. Freeman, you have made all these rules of yours and now haven't the guts to enforce them yourself. You either make rules and enforce them or you have no rules at all.

Mr. Freeman may say that I speak for myself only, which is his easy way of making excuse for his weakness in carrying out the job he said he was going to do. I have talked to many campers this weekend who have said they don't think they will ever be back. Is this what the people of Warren and other towns around the dam want? Don't forget the campers spend a lot of money in this area and you have backed the advertising to get them here but I guess what you have tried to do for your town and area is being of no use with a man like the state has, running the center of attraction. If the silent majority of campers would speak up and write your congressman, governor, and newspapers, we could change the world if we wanted to. Just ask Mr. Freeman!

The Gallup Poll

Wallace's Gains Cost Humphrey And McGovern

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.Y., June 10 — Gov. George Wallace has registered sharp gains in the latest test elections, at the expense of Sen. Hubert Humphrey, and to a lesser extent, Sen. George McGovern. This has produced President Nixon's widest lead to date over both Humphrey and McGovern, despite the fact that the size of Nixon's vote has not increased since the previous measurement, taken in early May.

McGovern makes a better showing than Humphrey in the latest trial heats, conducted in late May. He trails Nixon by 13 points, 43 to 30 per cent, while Humphrey lags behind Nixon by 17 points, 43 to 26 per cent.

In the previous (early May) trial heats, McGovern trailed Nixon by eight points while Humphrey was 11 points behind.

The tables below show the trend in the trial heats since mid-April with Gov. George Wallace included as a possible third party candidate: Nixon-McGovern-Wallace Trend

	Nixon	McGovern	Wal-lace	Un-dec.
May 26-29	43	30	19	8
April 28-May 1	43	35	15	7
April 21-24	45	32	16	7

	Nixon	Wal-lace	Humphrey	Un-dec.
May 26-29	43	26	22	9
April 28-May 1	45	34	15	6
April 21-24	44	31	16	9

Wallace Vote

Hits New High

The latest findings indicate that a "sympathy vote" may be operating for Wallace following the May 15 attempt on his life.

Wallace's current vote of 22 per cent, in a match-up with Nixon and Humphrey represents his highest score yet recorded. His previous high of 21 per cent was recorded during the presidential campaign in late September, 1968. His support steadily fell off from then until the election when he won 13.6 per cent of the vote to 43.0 per cent for Humphrey and 43.4 per cent for Nixon.

Sept. '68 Results

Match Today's

Remarkably, the September, 1968 trial heat figures almost exactly match those recorded in the latest Nixon-Humphrey-Wallace trial heat. Nixon won the support of 43 per cent in the earlier survey, compared to 28 per cent for Humphrey and 21 per cent for Wallace, with 8 per cent undecided.

From that time, however, the Wallace vote started to fade, with his losses translating into gains for Humphrey. By election eve, as the Gallup Poll indicated, Nixon had only a slim margin over Humphrey.

Wallace Also Gains

As Nomination Choice

Wallace's gains in the latest trial heats (up seven points from the previous test against Humphrey, up four versus McGovern) reinforce survey findings reported Friday. These showed Wallace now tied with Humphrey and McGovern as the top choice of the nation's Democrats for the nomination, and far ahead of his two rivals among Independents, winning 36 per cent of their support to 25 per cent for McGovern and 11 per cent for Humphrey.

If Wallace

Does Not Run

With many political observers of the opinion that Wallace will not run as a third party candidate this year, it is important to see where his vote would go in the event he does not enter the race.

To determine this, registered voters choosing Wallace were asked to select between just the two major party candidates in each of the two trial heats.

Nixon Gains Most

With Wallace Out

The national findings show Nixon benefitting over each of his two leading rivals, if Wallace is not in the picture.

Nixon would gain 10 points with Wallace out, while McGovern would pick up only four points. The President would gain nine points to only six for Humphrey.

The following tables show the vote in the latest test runs, with and without Wallace:

	Nixon	McGovern	Wallace	Undecided
		Per cent	Per cent	Per cent
3-way race	43	30	19	8
2-way race	53	34	--	13

	Nixon	Wallace	Undecided
		Per cent	Per cent
3-way race	43	26	22
2-way race	52	32	--

The latest trial heats are based on in-person interviews with a total of 1180 registered voters out of a total sample of 1540 adults interviewed May 26-29 in more than 300 localities across the nation. These questions were asked:

Suppose the presidential election were being held TODAY. If Richard Nixon were the Republican candidate and George McGovern (Hubert Humphrey) were the Democratic candidate, and George Wallace ran again as a third party candidate, which would you like to see win?

—and—

Suppose Wallace is not in the race, which candidate would you prefer — Nixon or McGovern (Nixon or Humphrey)?

House GOPs Demand Passage Of Welfare Control Bill

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) —

Adding a new wrinkle to budget maneuvering, House Republicans demand Gov. Milton Shapp's approval of a welfare control bill before they'll support his $3.64 billion spending plan.

House Minority Leader Kenneth Lee, R-Sullivan, says, however, enactment of the bill would not by itself guarantee Republican support for the fiscal 1972-73 budget. Lee, along with enough dissident Democrats to block passage, has called for $200 million in cuts. Meanwhile, House Speaker

Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, says the Republicans are "just looking for excuses for not giving their votes."

"Their plan is to keep the budget from passing as long as possible and pass stopgaps," Fineman said. "The closer it gets to the election that much better off they'll be politically."

The House Appropriations Committee released to the floor last week a $3.68 billion budget, inflated over Shapp's proposal largely to meet aid to nonpublic school financing.

Committee Chairman Martin Mullen, D-Philadelphia, was pushing for a vote on the budget for this week. But he said it may be delayed until next week because of bill-planting problems.

Lee said he had discussed with Democratic leaders a compromise on the welfare control bill, which gives the legislature veto power over Welfare Department rules and regulations. It's ready for a final vote in the House, but Shapp has said he will veto the measure. "I think that there are probably some refinements that might make the bill more acceptable to the administration," Lee said.

But he added: "If there is no compromise, then we would insist that (the bill be passed by the House) and signed by the governor prior to final adoption of any budget."

"I don't want to imply that if the governor signs this, we will adopt the budget. This is one provision that has been discussed. I would insist that the budget be tied in to this particular bill."

Rep. Kent Shelhamer, leader of a Democratic faction that holds the balance of power, said he was not "unhappy" with Lee's welfare plan but he would not insist on its passage as a condition for supplying budget votes.

Shelhamer, a Columbia County fruit grower, was skeptical of a Chamber of Commerce campaign to slash $440 million and said his faction might not insist on its desire for a $200 million cut. The dissident Democrats, however, will call for budget cuts "as high as possible but as reasonable as possible," he added.

Shelhamer said his faction is expected to be ready to present its budget-cutting proposals this week.

Fineman said a Democratic nose count would be taken early in the week on the budget. If the 102 votes aren't available, leaders would forego remaining in session the whole week as they planned.

Foundation Awards 14 Student Grants

The Scholarship Committee of the Warren Foundation has awarded 14 grants and tabled for reconsideration several others of 29 new applications.

The committee said that the policy is to award as many grants as possible, but that funds are more limited this year. If the 33 students who received grants last year apply for renewals, there will be 47 grantees for the coming year.

The committee said there is a great need for gifts to the scholarship fund, particularly with increasing tuition and other expenses each year.

The income from the scholarship fund is not sufficient to cover all grants, the committee said. The Distributing Committee has for several years voted the income from undesignated funds to this purpose.

"Only the income is used and few stop to think how much principal is required to make a single grant possible," a spokesman said.

"If every man, woman and child in Warren could contribute one dollar a year to the fund —and if (certain) individuals and industries could contribute what each can afford —many more worthy students would be helped toward useful careers," the spokesman said. The committee said that gifts are tax-deductible.

WAXMAN'S FURNITURE STORE

319 Pennsylvania Avenue, West

Waxman's, One of Warren's Oldest Business Establishments

Waxman's Furniture Store at 319 Pennsylvania ave. west has been satisfying customers since 1905. That's 67 years—a record to be proud of.

Waxman's is a man's store, a woman's store, a family store. It's a man's store if he's buying a gift for a bachelor friend or a whimsical attraction for the club cellar, playroom or home bar. It's a woman's store if she's buying a gift for a shower or the newly-weds, home appliances or an over-sized champagne glass for a very special occasion, draperies or pictures for the wall. It's a family store if you're buying furniture or heating units, TV sets or sound equipment—or even an old-fashioned porch swing. Waxman's also does contract carpeting. They installed the carpet at the Allegheny Hotel and Chimenti's East Side Restaurant, among other recent projects. They have custom-made venetian blinds, something that's pretty hard to find these days. There's a full line of custom-made draperies—they will measure, make and hang them for you. And they will do the same with carpeting.

Waxman's has so much on display it's a miracle they find room for it all. Whether you're looking for a gift, furnishing a house, redecorating or just shopping for a conversation piece, you can certainly find it at Waxman's.

You can browse as much as you like with good music to make your trip to the store an enjoyable one. Jerry and his people are there to help you, to offer suggestions, to help you find what you can't find for yourself. But your visit to the store will be a relaxing one and you may well end up buying more than you intended because there are so many intriguing items on display.

On the practical side of things—it is, after all, a furniture store—if you're an Early American buff you'll find a wide variety to help you make your home look just like grandma's did. If it's modern you prefer, there's a good selection there too. You can mix and match—which lots of people like to do today—with an expert there to help you, Jerry Waxman.

There are rugs and draperies to fit any decorating scheme as well as occasional pieces, lamps and pictures. The pictures are particularly interesting because there's quite a selection. You might choose a painting of the Signing of the Declaration of Independence... or October Gleaning... or Ruffled Grouse... or a spectacular modern work of art... and arrange the color scheme of your living room around it. Jerry can help you there, too. If you are just furnishing your home or apartment and fall in love with a painting, let him help you select your upholstery and draperies.

If you've already furnished your house and are anticipating a Blessed Event, visit Waxman's for cribs, strollers, carriages. You're sure to find one to fit that Special Occasion.

On the other hand, if you're trying to save money and there's a practical man about the house, you'll find a very good selection of unpainted furniture at Waxman's. Included among the more ordinary pieces you might expect to see are the more unusual such as a deacon's storage bench and a desk-secretary with a top curio cabinet. You can stain or paint these pieces to match any decor you have in mind which is a joy in these days of wild abandon in home decorating.

Aside from the practical world of tables and chairs and beds and draperies, stereo sets and TV for your home entertainment, and lawn furniture to make days and nights outdoors memorable and most enjoyable ones—plus oversize raincoats to keep that beautiful lawn furniture dry—Waxman's can offer gift suggestions par excellence. There's a sign in the front of the store calling attention to Waxman's "Wonderful World of Gifts." And it is just that.

For the unusual, you can find, for instance, an executive lunch box, a money bag and framed children's letters to God. The Salton Hotray gourmet appliances make wonderful gifts for showers, brides, hostesses, at holiday occasions, in fact any time of year.

There are beautiful old-fashioned hurricane lamps, wall plaques, mirrors, punch bowl sets and lazy susans for your own home or to choose as gifts.

If you're doing your own thing in the playroom, you'll be interested in the selection of imported incense burners—and the incense. Also in the bar lights. A vermouth bottle bar lamp would be an asset to any home entertainer. There are more items in this category than you could possibly imagine, from lamps to incense to signs for the wall to—you name it!

Spice racks and colorful canister sets come in handy in the kitchen. If you're tired of spending endless time in that particular abode, you can buy a microwave oven at Waxman's and save yourself those endless hours you've been wanting to do something else with.

If you have songbirds in your garden, you'll love the glazed footed vases featuring these colorful feathered friends. If you prefer flowers all around the house, potted plant stands will make it easy for you in every room of the house. If there's kids around perpetually looking for a nibble, a school house cookie jar might be your answer. If you want a spectacular arrangement for a very special occasion, there's a 60 oz. champagne glass—you could arrange flowers in it or Christmas balls or plant a fern in it. Or serve it full of champagne to the newly-weds at a reception.

There's a large selection of wall clocks, bar accessories, punch bowl and salad bowl sets, salt and pepper shakers and things like that which can add interest both indoors and out.

You can also buy electric logs at Waxman's, which after all are the next best thing to a real honest-to-goodness fireplace to make you feel warmer on a cold winter's night—and winter's not all that far away. Since it's now summertime, you can now also buy your food umbrellas there to keep the flies off the salad and the sandwiches.

The big selection of lazy susans will come in handy throughout the year, whether indoors or out. They're both colorful and handy.

And if you have a disaster in the kitchen with the Corningware, Waxman's has extra lids and can arrange other replacement parts. You never have a disaster with Corningware from stove to freezer to stove again. But if someone drops a dish or lid, the inevitable will happen. Waxman's carries a full line of Corningware. The nicest part of it all is that if something does happen, all is not lost—Waxman's will take care of the tragedy in short order.

In fact, whatever it is you need for whatever reason, try Waxman's. They either have it or can get it for you or will have a readily available substitute which may not really be a substitute at all because it may come closer to what you really wanted in the first place.

WAXMAN'S SPECIALIZES IN 'PERSONAL SERVICE'

Waxman's Furniture Store specializes in "personal service," according to Jerry Waxman. The customer is not considered just a bill rung up in the register, he says. There is no high pressure. "We consider what is best for them rather than what is best for us," Jerry says.

This is the old-time type of personal-interest salesmanship seldom found these days. But since Kinzua Country abounds in friendly people, shoppers are more likely to find friendly, personal assistance here than in most places they might shop.

For those looking for brand names, among the many recognized ones at Waxman's are Restonic bedding, Clayton-Marcus living room furniture; Mohawk, Cabin Craft and Masland carpeting; Samsonite tables; Corningware; Eureka vacuum cleaners, Daystrom dining area furniture, Lane living room tables, Bunting outdoor and patio furniture, Sirocco and Burwood wall pieces, Keystone lamps, Brohill bedroom and dining room furniture, Siegler oil and gas heaters and Warm Morning gas heaters.

The big features at Waxman's are several, really—friendly, interested service, a complete line of furnishings, and unexpected dividends for the person looking for something unusual.

Area Couples United In Traditional June Weddings

Fletcher-Donham Vows

Barbara Lynn Donham became the bride of Daniel Ray Fletcher in a double ring ceremony held at the Calvary Baptist Church, June 3, 1972.

The Rev. A. Wallace Olson, pastor of the church, officiated at the afternoon ceremony before an altar decorated with seven-branch candelabra and vases of white glads, mums, daisies, snapdragons and palms.

Organist was Rebecca Waller, Stillwater, Minn. Mrs. Henry F. Blick Jr., Warren, was soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Donham, 218 Canton st., Warren. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Fletcher, 113 S.W. 299th place, Seattle, Wash.

As the bride was escorted to the altar by her father, she appeared in a white silk organza over bridal taffeta gown. Satin ribbons laced the tiered bodice of the midriff, high Victorian neckline, the edge of the full bishop sleeves, and the wide hem of the gown. The chapel length train was also outlined with the same ribbon and Venice lace. The bride wore a gold locket, a gift of the bridegroom.

Her finger-tip tulle veil was secured to a bonnet of lace embroidered with seed pearls and was caught by Victorian satin ribbon loops.

She carried a bouquet of white miniature carnations and baby's breath, centered with a white orchid, which the bride wore as she left for her honeymoon trip.

Shirley Erlanson, Traverse City, Mich. was chosen as maid of honor. Glenace Eclund, Dinson, Iowa, and Nancy Blick, Warren, a cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore gowns of dacron voile with tiny pink flowers. The honor attendant's gown was of lavender and the bridesmaids' gowns were of white and powder blue. The gowns featured empire style waistlines, trimmed with satin ribbon which continued into a back bow with streamers. The gowns were styled with long full sleeves and high stand up necklines. They wore matching Dior bows as headpieces.

The attendants carried colonial bouquets of pink rosebuds, lavender asters, pale blue and white daisies, pale green fiji mums, pink miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Sally Blick, Warren, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl, dressed in a pale green gown, styled identically to those of the adult attendants. She carried a miniature colonial bouquet.

Wallace Borner, Hastings, Minn. served as best man. Groomsman were Gordon Person, Iron Mountain, Mich.; and Edwin D. Fletcher, Seattle, Wash. Ushers were Michael Bengtson, Warren and Charles Backlund, Minneapolis, Minn.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of Calvary Baptist Church, with Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Blick Jr. acting as master and mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Charles Backlund, Mrs. Michael Bengtson, Mary Eileen Kiser, Joyce Rydholm, Joy Reed and Patti, Sherri and Tammi Backlund served as aides.

The couple is traveling to the Finger Lakes Region of New York State on their honeymoon trip and after June 15 are to reside in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Warren Area High School and has completed her junior year at Bethel College, St. Paul, Minn., where she majored in psychology. She is to complete her senior year at the University of Cincinnati.

The bridegroom graduated from Bethel College in 1968 with a B.A. degree in Philosophy. He received his Master of Divinity

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fletcher

Degree from Bethel Seminary May 28 of this year. He is assuming the position of Director of Christian Education and Youth Work at the First Baptist Church of Greenhills, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The bride was honored at several pre-nuptial affairs including a shower in Warren, given by Ellen E. Swanson; a shower in Minneapolis, Minn. hosted by Mrs. Marvin Samuelson and Mrs. Charles Backlund; a shower given by the girls in the college dormitory in St. Paul, Minn.; a shower given in Warren by Mrs. Henry F. Blick Jr. and Mrs. Myron Rydholm; and a shower in absentia given by Mrs. Jerry Harrington, Seattle, Wash.

Johnson-Thorpe Vows

Karlene Ann Thorpe exchanged wedding vows with Gregory M. Johnson June 3, 1972 in the First United Presbyterian Church, Sugar Grove.

The Rev. Daniel P.S. Bowers performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of multi-colored glads and killian daisies, and standing baskets of glads, daisies and majestic daisies. The aisles of the church were decorated with white satin bows.

Mrs. Nancy Meader played traditional organ music for the afternoon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Thorpe, 6 Curtis st., Sugar Grove. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Jr., RD 1, Russell.

As the bride was escorted to the altar by her father, she was dressed in a white gown of organza and reembodyered rochelle lace with Venice lace trim. The gown featured a bouffant skirt, high neckline and bishop sleeves with a high cuff. An all-lace panel of rochelle lace was featured on the front of the gown, and the center of the detachable chapel length train was outlined in Venice lace.

Her three-tiered silk illusion veil was secured to a half crown juliet cap, decorated with seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white butterfly roses and baby's breath.

Carol Thompson, Barker, N.Y., Norma Wilson, Herminie, Pa., and Mrs. Karen Johnson, Lander, a sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaids.

The attendants were dressed in gowns of sheer cotton in white with maize flowers accented with ruffled bodice and lace trim. They wore Camelot headpieces of Venice lace and pearls, to which was attached three-tiered butterfly veils of maize.

They carried bouquets of white glamerias, yellow sweetheart roses, and yellow miniature carnations.

Kurt Thorpe, a brother of the bride, served as acolyte.

Lynn Branstrom, Russell, was chosen as best man. Ushers were Kevin Thorpe, Sugar Grove, a brother of the bride; and Fred Johnson, Lander, and Bruce Johnson, Russell, brothers of the bridegroom.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at the Busti Fire Hall, Busti, N.Y. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thompson, an aunt and uncle of the bride, served as master and mistress of ceremonies. Reception aides were Mrs. Jan Alspaugh, Mrs. Marsha Collins, Mrs. Patricia Norlander, Nancy Thorpe, all cousins of the bride; Mrs. Lucy Norlander, an aunt of the bride; Mrs. Doris Eller and Mrs. Doris Johnson, aunts of the bridegroom; and Caroline Cheryl Johnson, a sister of the bridegroom.

After returning from a honeymoon trip to the Finger Lake region of New York state, the couple is to be at home at 226 Willsden Lane, London, England.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Eisenhower High School and attended Clarion State College.

The bridegroom is a 1969 graduate of Eisenhower High School, attended Clarion State College, and is now serving with the United States Navy in London, England.

Pre-nuptial showers in honor of the bride were hosted by Cindy Manelich and Norma Wilson; Mrs. Marsha Collins, Mrs. Jan Alspaugh and Mrs. Sandy Thompson; Mrs. Joyce Onink and daughters, Tammy and Terri; and Mrs. Karen Johnson, Mrs. Doris Eller, and Mrs. Phyllis Nesmith.

Newark-Loncaric Vows

Patricia Ann Loncaric and Frederick Merle Newark repeated their wedding vows in a double ring ceremony held in the Sheffield Methodist Church, June 3, 1972.

The Rev. George Campbell, pastor of the church, officiated at the afternoon ceremony. Chuck Young was organist and Ruth Eberhart was vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Loncaric, 533 Maple ave., DuBois, Pa. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Newark, Sheffield.

The bride was escorted to the altar by Stuart Lord, and appeared in a floor length gown which featured juliet sleeves, a high collar and sheer illusion yoke. The full chapel length train was converted into a butterfly bustle during the wedding reception.

The bride's three-tiered nylon tulle veil was secured to a headpiece of lace petals. She carried a bouquet of carnations and white roses, accented with ivy.

Irene Loncaric, a sister of the bride, was chosen as maid of honor. Norma Carlson, a sister of the bridegroom, and Elaine Larsen served as bridesmaids.

The attendants were dressed in mint green full length gowns of nylon sheer. Their nylon tulle veils were secured to headpieces of petals and loops. The carried bouquets of daisies.

Carl Carlson, a brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Dale Littlefield, a cousin of the bridegroom and Lee Goldthwaite.

A reception for the newlyweds was held in the Sheffield Fire Hall, with Ann Simons, Judy Snow, Joanne Maley, Suzie McCullough and Kate Powers acting as aides.

Following a honeymoon trip to Washington, D.C., the couple is to be at home at 200 Horton ave., Sheffield.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of DuBois Area High School, and is employed by New Process Company.

The bridegroom is a 1965 graduate of Sheffield High School and is employed at Sheffield Container.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given in honor of the bride-elect by Elaine Larsen, Irene Loncaric and Patty Johnson and Norma and Myrtle Newark.

Sweet Adelines Plan Guest Night

Preparations are underway for the June 13 guest night to be held by Warren Chapter of Sweet Adelines.

The chorus members hope this will prove to be a means by which they may obtain new members, and hope that all women who would like to express themselves musically on a weekly "night-out" basis will give the Sweet Adelines a try.

The chapter is in the midst of its busy summer schedule which included plans to sing for the Scandia Volunteer Fire Department Variety Show on June 10. They will also sing for the awards dinner for the Cancer Society on June 20.

In addition, the forward-looking girls are preparing costumes and music for their Oct. 21 show.

The Warren Chapter of Sweet Adelines is part of the international organization of Sweet Adelines, Inc., which has its international headquarters at Tulsa, Oklahoma. The Warren chapter was chartered ten years ago, and currently has two members who have been in sweet adelines since the chartering. During these ten years, the chorus has presented a number of shows, attended regional competitions, participated in several music schools, held regional and inter-chapter parties, and joined together to sing for many of Warren's and surrounding communities' church and civic groups.

At the present time, the membership consists of 20 women who come from Sheffield, Clarendon, Warren and Russell. The ages range from 20 to one girl who claims that she is 39. A few members are office workers, some are teachers, and assistant teachers, some are nurses, one is a librarian and some are full-time homemakers.

Besides singing, which the chapter does every Tuesday from 8 to 10 p.m., the girls are engaged in money-making projects throughout the year to raise funds for costumes and competition. This year's projects consisted of selling home-made fudge, paper flowers, tote bags, stationery and candles.

Eugene Schwanke, who has been associated with the Warren Men's Barbershoppers for some time and has sung with various quartets, is the chorus' director.

The chorus meets every Tuesday night at the Emanuel Church of Christ on the corner of Alston street and Pennsylvania avenue east. All interested women are urged to attend the June 13 guest night to become acquainted with barbershop music. The chorus members are anxious to have many new members join the present ones in learning some very old, and some quite new, songs.

Anyone desiring further information may call the following members: North Warren and Warren, Forence Stevenson, 723-5946; Sheffield, Mary Straneva, 968-5644; Warren, Joan Harrison, 723-7912; and Russell, Sandy Neal, 757-8342.

Father's Day 1972
Open Tonight and EVERY Night 'til 10

Dwyer-Leofsky Vows Said

Carolyn Jean Leofsky became the bride of Thomas Charles Dwyer in a double ring ceremony performed at St. Peter's Cathedral, Erie, June 10, 1972.

The Rev. Father Thomas Kelly officiated at the afternoon ceremony before an altar decorated with white glads and spider mums. William Herring was organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Agnes Leofsky, Garland and the late Henry Leofsky. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dwyer, 4914 Point Circle drive, Monroeville, Pa.

As the bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Richard Leofsky, she was dressed in a gown of ivory peau de soie in a princess style. Belgium lace enhanced the Saxon sleeves, the high neckline and hemline of the gown. The bride's cathedral length Belgium mantilla veil was edged in matching lace.

She carried a bouquet of green cymbidiums, ivy, statice, and baby's breath.

Sandi Lynch, Erie, was chosen as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Ann Leofsky, Garland, a sister of the bride; Kathleen Dwyer, Monroeville, Pa., a sister of the bridegroom; Barbara Soltys, Erie and Kathy Colburn, Merritt Island, Fla., cousins of the bride.

The attendants were dressed in mint green dotted Swiss gowns with mint green velvet ribbon headpieces. They carried bouquets of yellow and white daisy pompons, statice and baby's breath.

Laura Leofsky, Silver Springs, Maryland was flower girl and Michael Leofsky, Syracuse, N.Y. was ringbearer. Both are cousins of the bride. The flower girl was dressed in a gown styled identically to those of the adult attendants, and carried a basket of flowers which matched the attendants' bouquets.

Robert Dwyer, Monroeville, served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Jack Boyle, Butler, Pa.; John Shannon, Monroeville and Randall Leofsky, Garland and Ronald Leofsky, Erie, both brothers of the bride.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at the Sharpshooters Club, Erie with the bride's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Leofsky, acting as master and mistress of ceremonies. Maggie Connors and the bride's aunts, Mrs. Helen Soltys and Mrs. Marian Prugas, were reception aides.

The decorations followed the mint green decor of the wedding. Centerpieces of flowers matching the bridesmaids' bouquets were on the main table, centered by a wedding cake, topped with a nosegay which matched the bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Thomas Dwyer

After returning from a honeymoon trip to the Bahama Islands June 21, the couple is to be at home at 107 Buena Vista, Cherry Villas, Hershey, Pa.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Youngsville High School, and a 1972 graduate of Gannon College, where she earned a degree in social work. She had been employed as administrator of Rent-A-Kid in Erie. The bridegroom is a 1967 graduate of Gateway High School, Monroeville and a 1971 graduate of Gannon College, where he earned a degree in sociology. He was affiliated with Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity while at Gannon. He is employed as a vocational rehabilitation counselor in Harrisburg.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Holiday Inn in downtown Erie.

Other prenuptial affairs given for the bride-elect included a shower given by Sandi Lynch in Erie; a shower given by Mrs. Becky Connors and Pat McElliott in Monroeville; and a shower given in Erie by the bride's aunts, Mrs. Edward Prugar and Mrs. Ben Soltys.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I reply to the woman who has no guest bed and only love seats in the living room to make sure nobody sleeps overnight in her home?

I must say the old sourpuss is missing a lot. One of the happiest weeks of my life was when I had eight house guests plus my own family of five. We slept on the floor, on army cots and in a hammock on the porch. We ate in shifts and it was sheer bedlam. But what a wonderful time we had! It was a party, around the clock, with everyone pitching in. The house was filled with laughter. There wasn't a single complaint.

That woman with no extra bed will never have such wonderful fun—or such memories. I'll bet her well organized life is deadly dull and I can imagine what her friends and relatives think of her.—Open-Hearted In Plainfield

DEAR OPEN: You make it sound easy—but not all guests can be put on the floor, or in a hammock, or counted on to pitch in. I have childhood memories of sleeping on the floor when our house was filled with company and it was great fun—for us kids. But it was my dear mother who did all the work.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read that letter from the seventh grader who complained because his teacher ate popcorn while she talked over the amplifying system (the crunching drove the kids crazy), I knew I had to write. The student stated rather casually, "There are 72 kids in our class and the teacher has a hard time controlling them."

Wake up, America! Where in the blankety-blank is your tax dollar going? Why does a teacher have 72 students in her class? Twelve-year-olds deserve a better deal than that.

When the school referendum shows up on the ballot do you vote yes or do you vote no and gripe about taxes? Has the money already been appropriated, and is it being misused or diverted? Make it your business to find out.

Some of our school buildings should be condemned and rebuilt. Too many classrooms have 20-year-old text books, inadequate supplies and old, beat-up audio-visual aids. Thousands of teachers have been laid off and are collecting unemployment compensation or taking clerking or office jobs. Why? Because the Boards of Education can't pay them? What goes on in YOUR community? Learn the facts. Then complain to the Mayor or the City Manager, the Board of Education and The City Council.

Next, let your Congressman and Senators in Washington know that you want less money spent on the military, the space programs, foreign aid and beautification and more spent on education for our children. Let them know that if they don't vote the way you want them to, they won't get re-elected.—Mad

DEAR MAD: Bravo! Right on! Cheers! Thanks for writing!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 14-year-old girl who doesn't know what to do about her seven-year-old sister. There's going to be a talent contest soon and she wants to be in it. This would be great if she had talent. The poor kid thinks she can sing.

When I was in the fourth grade I thought I could sing, too. I remember getting up in a school assembly and making a big fool of myself. I don't want it to happen to my sister. She's been rehearsing for the past week and it's pretty gross. Mom says to leave her alone—that some people have to learn the hard way. I hate to see her suffer like I did. Please, Ann, how can I help her?—Big Sister

DEAR SIS: Leave her alone. Some people have to learn the hard way.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Pa. Racing Head Gets $70,000 Tax Break

HARRISBURG (AP) — The chairman of the State Racing Commission—a former business partner of Gov. Shapp—received a $70,000 tax break from the Shapp administration, House minority leader Kenneth B. Lee has charged.

The Sullivan County Republican said over the weekend he would seek a legislative investigation of the case involving Joseph L. Leece, commission chairman and former president of the Citica Corp. of Williamsport, a cable television firm in which Shapp once had a financial interest.

Despite Lee's allegations, State Atty. Gen. J. Shane Creamer has defended the tax settlement as "legally justified." Leece's tax break came when his attorney and deputy state Atty. Gen. Edward T. Baker filed a stipulation in Commonwealth Court on June 3, 1971, for a judgment of $10,500, which Leece paid a week later, Lee contended.

The racing chairman had appealed a ruling by the state Board of Finance and Revenue that he owed $80,570 in use taxes and interest through his electrical contracting firm, Joseph L. Leece Inc. of Williamsport. Leece claimed his books had been improperly audited.

The board is composed of three Shapp cabinet officers—Creamer, state Treasurer Grace M. Sloan and Auditor Gen. Robert P. Casey.

Leece and Baker agreed in a stipulation that the original assessment by the state Revenue Department had been "improper and illegal."

Lee, however, said he planned to introduce a resolution in the House this week calling for a "full investigation of the entire case."

"It is becoming increasingly apparent that Mayor (Frank) Rizzo (of Philadelphia) was right when he recently demanded that the governor fire his attorney general on the ground that he is a double-crosser, faker and political prostitute—and the quotes are Rizzo's," Lee said.

"I am appalled that, on the evidence presented by the complete records in this case, the governor apparently has intervened to secure a compromise tax settlement for one of his former cronies whom he later named chairman of the state Racing Commission," Lee continued.

Creamer, who noted he reviewed the settlement after being questioned by Casey about the case last month, said his conclusion was "the settlement was legally justified and within the then existing permissible limits of discretion vested in deputy attorneys general to settle cases."

Plot Against Creamer Nixed By Top Man

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gangsters considered murdering Pennsylvania Atty. Gen. J. Shane Creamer two years ago, but the idea was nixed by their top man, Angelo Bruno, the Philadelphia Inquirer reported Sunday.

The newspaper said the information was contained in a confidential memo from J. Edgar Hoover, the late director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Creamer, reached at his Harrisburg residence Sunday, confirmed that Hoover had written such a memo.

Hoover, according to the newspaper, said a "captain" in the Philadelphia mob, told Bruno, the reputed kingpin of organized crime in the Philadelphia area, the only way to end "harassment" by federal investigators was to "hit" Creamer.

"In this matter," the newspaper quoted Hoover as writing, "the word 'hit' definitely means murder."

At the time, Creamer was chief of a federal strike force investigating crime in Philadelphia.

Two months later, in October 1970, Bruno was jailed for refusing to answer questions before the New Jersey Commission of Investigation, conducting a probe separate from the Philadelphia investigation. Bruno remains jailed at the New Jersey State Correction Center in Yardville.

Creamer said the Justice Department told him of the murder proposal in late August, a few weeks after it allegedly was made. The "captain" who wanted him killed, Creamer said, was the No. 2 man in organized crime in the area, whom Creamer identified only as a Philadelphia resident who was not convicted on any charges as a result of the investigation. The man is free today, Creamer added.

Voigt Wins JVCC Open

Warren's Matt Voigt fired an even par 71 Sunday at Jackson Valley Country Club to capture the Jackson Valley Open golf tournament. Voigt's 71 was four strokes better than Ted Kochan, Whitey Carling, Dave Cieban, and Chick Bello, who all shot 75.

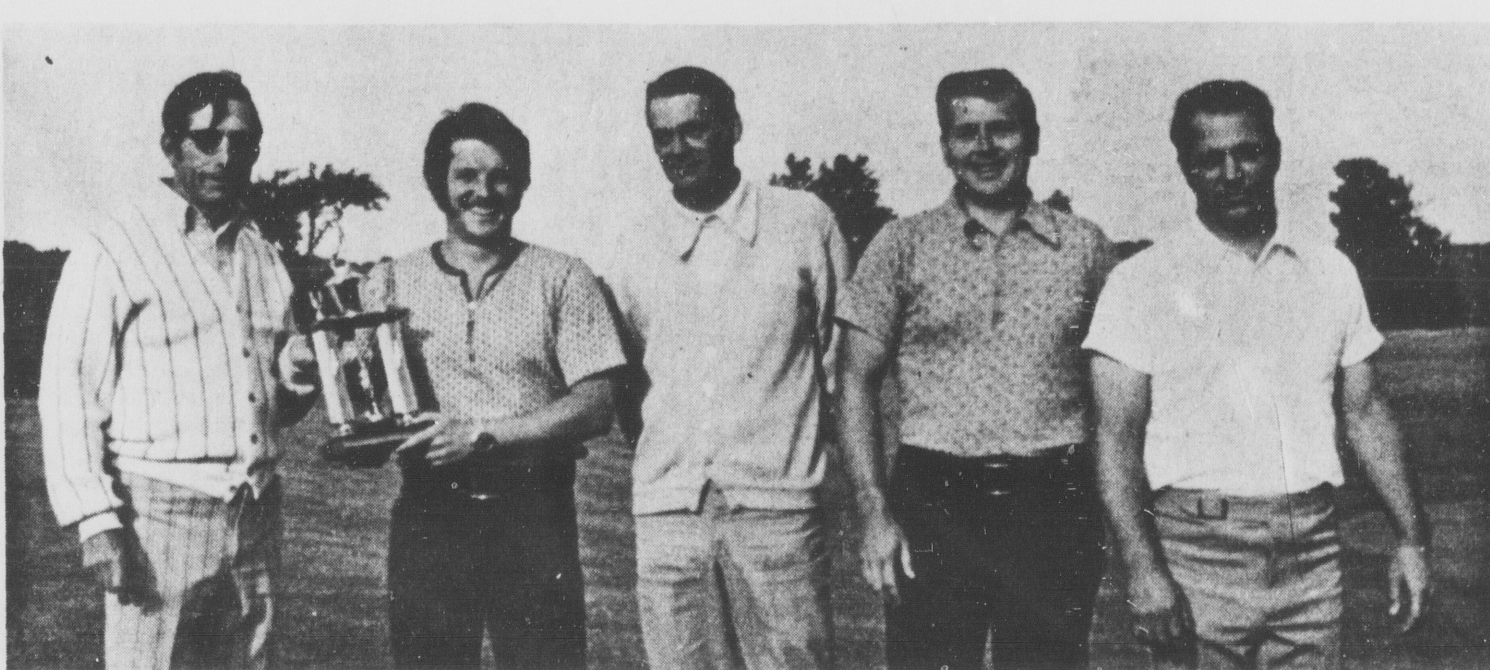

Hal Cline was the second flight winner with a 77, Gary Swanson captured the third flight with an 80, and Lee Meyer's 87 was good for first place in the fourth flight.

Voigt got off to a slow start on the front nine, as he three-putted three of the first six greens. "The greens were spiked about a week ago on the front side and they were very bumpy. I think everyone had trouble on the first nine because of that, and the pin placement was very tough all the way around," said Voigt.

Voigt shot a tremendous round on the back nine as he scored four birdies and five pars. Birdies came on numbers 10, 11, 14 and 17. Numbers 10 and 17 are par fives. On number 11, a 382-yard par four, Voigt hit a long drive right down the middle, then hit a wedge within two feet of the pin from about 80 yards out. "My putting was a lot better on the back nine," said Voigt. "I had 10 putts on the back side, and I two-putted number 12 when I missed a ten-footer for a bird."

When asked what hole he thought won the tournament, Voigt said, "I think number 14 won it for me. I hit a wedge into the green and left it about 35 feet away. I made the putt, and from there on I thought I could win it."

The prize list and the top ten finishers were not available last evening.

Hamilton, Juliano Record 71s To Share CVCC's Governor's Cup

Gaston Hamilton sat in the Conewago Valley Country Club Sunday after shooting a 71 with just the seven players who remained on the course standing between him and the club's Governor's Cup trophy.

But steady play by Pete Juliano brought the tournament to close in a tie as he also toured the 18 holes in 71.

The tournament, played with three-fourths handicap, saw Hamilton sky to a 48 on the front side, but get hot on the second nine and drop off to a 40 for an 88 gross. His handicap of 17 lowered his score to 71. Juliano was playing consistently on both sides, firing a 37 on the first nine and nearly matching that figure on the back side with a 38 for a 75 gross, and 71 net with his four handicap.

Juliano had a pair of birdies in his round, on numbers six and ten. At the sixth, Juliano rolled in a ten foot putt for a three. He had just a tap-in on number ten—a 410-yd. par four—as he blasted a three-wood to within two inches of the cup.

Next in line was Dr. Bruce Duell, four strokes off the pace with a 74. Defending champion Plummer Collins, who carded a 67 last year, finished in a tie for fourth with Bob Phillips, with both shooting 75.

The tourney, which was spread over Saturday and Sunday, attracted 26 CVCC members.

Hands, Bryant Flip Five-Hitters As Cubs, Giants Divide Twinbill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fran Healy's double and rookie Damaso Blanco's run-scoring single keyed a two-run, sixth-inning rally that supported Ron Bryant's five-hit pitching and lifted San Francisco to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs. The win snapped the Giants' eight-game losing streak in the second game of a Sunday doubleheader.

Bill Hands pitched a five-hitter and Carmon Fanzone lashed a two-run single, leading a 4-0 Chicago victory in the opener.

Healy's one-out double was the Giants' second hit of the game and started the rally off reliever Tom Phoebus, 2-2, who replaced injured Burt Hooton in the third inning.

Bryant, 3-2, struck out after Healy's double, but the ball got away from catcher Ken Rudolph. Bryant went all the way to second when Rudolph threw wildly to third trying for Healy.

The ball skipped into left field and Healy scored. Bryant scored on Blanco's first major league hit.

Healy later scored the Giants' final run in a wild pitch in the eighth inning.

Hooton had to leave the game after retiring the first seven Giants when a hard liner glanced off his right hand, opening a cut on the ring finger. The injury is not considered serious.

Juan Marichal became the major league's first 10-game loser in the opener. The Giants' right-hander, who has won twice, fell behind in the third inning on Ron Santo's leadoff walk, two ground outs and Don Kessinger's run-scoring single. Rick Monday's double, Jose Cardenal's sacrifice and Santo's single gave Hands, 5-2, a 2-0 lead in the sixth. The Cubs chased Marichal and capped their scoring with two runs in the seventh.

Drago Dazzles Yankees

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Dick Drago pitched a five-hitter and Amos Otis singled in the games only in the seventh inning to give the Kansas City Royals a 1-0 baseball victory over the New York Yankees Sunday.

Loser Steve Kline, 4-2, had a no-hitter through four innings before Otis blooped a single to center leading off the fifth.

Then, in the seventh, Lou Piniella broke out of an 0-10 slump with a lead-off single to left. One out later, John Mayberry singled Piniella to third and Otis followed with a line drive single to left, snapping the scoreless deadlock.

Padres Need Ten Innings To Snap Losing Streak, 4-3

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Derrell Thomas' run-scoring single in the 10th inning pulled San Diego from behind to a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday and halted a 10-game losing streak.

Jerry Morales pinch-running for Gary Jastadt, came home from third base with the game-winning run to make a loser of Rick Wise, 5-6. Jastadt had opened the inning with a single and Morales then moved to third on a sacrifice bunt and infield error. Wise was sailing along with a 3-1 lead on a five-hitter going into the ninth inning when San Diego tied the game on consecutive home runs by Nate Colbert and Larry Stahl.

The Cardinals had taken a two-run lead by scoring three runs off San Diego southpaw Fred Norman.

Segel and Sons notched its seventh straight victory, 7-5 over National Forge, to clinch first place for the first half play in the American League of Boys Baseball.

Playing Saturday in a make up of an earlier rainout, Segels scored seven runs in the top of the second inning, then held on to post the triumph. Steve Jeraman was the winning pitcher

Astros Bump Fading Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Cesar Cedeno knocked in three runs, including two on a homer in a decisive three-run seventh inning, to power the Houston Astros to a 4-2 baseball triumph over the slumping New York Mets Sunday.

Cedeno's run-scoring triple in the third gave Houston a 1-0 lead before he powered a two-run homer in the seventh to break a 2-2 tie and give the Astros their eventual winning margin.

The rally made a loser of New York starter Jim McAndrew, 5-2, and sent the Mets to their fifth defeat in the last seven games. Dave Roberts 5-3, was the Houston winner with ninth-inning relief help from Fred Gladding.

Cedeno's triple to the right-center field wall in the third sent home Roger Metzger, who had drawn a walk off McAndrew. The Mets came back with a run in their half of the frame on a walk to Rusty Staub and Cleon Jones's double.

Duffy Dyer then slammed a home run in the fourth inning, his third of the year, giving New York a brief 2-1 lead before the Houston comeback. A double by Doug Rader and a single by Tommy Helms scored the first run in Houston's seventh before Cedeno unloaded.

Wild Pitch Jails Texas Rangers, 3-1

ARLINGTON (AP) — Tom Shopay scored the winning run on a wild pitch and Dave Johnson doubled home another as the Baltimore Orioles struck for two runs in the ninth inning to whip the Texas Rangers 3-1 Sunday.

Shopay scooted home from third base on a wild pitch by reliever Horacio Pina before

Johnson capped the outburst with a double up the right-center field alley.

Shopay was a pinch-runner for Brooks Robinson, who had opened the rally with a single.

Jim Palmer won his seventh game in 10 decisions.

Cincinnati Demolishes Montreal Behind Nolan's 3-Hit Pitching

MONTREAL (AP) — Cincinnati rapped out 16 hits to support Gary Nolan's three-hit pitching as the Reds crushed the Montreal Expos 11-1 Sunday, maintaining their lead in the National League West Division.

The Reds staked Nolan to an early lead as they collected three runs off Montreal loser Steve Renko, 1-4, in the first inning.

Pete Rose and Joe Morgan singled and Rose scored the first run of the game on an infield out. Johnny Bench then drilled a single to left to score Morgan and then Bench scored when Ken Singleton dropped a fly ball by Tony Perez.

Cincinnati added a pair of runs in the third inning on a bases-loaded double by Hal McRae. The Reds got two more runs in the fifth off reliever Joe Gilbert when Bench led off with a ground-rule double out scored on a triple by Perez who then came in on McRae's infield out.

Brother Stops Schnars' Bid For Fifth Late Model Victory

BUSTI —Winning the late model feature at Stetline Speedway is a family affair. Younger brother Billy Schnars put an end to brother Bob's attempt for a record-breaking five straight victories Saturday night before 2500 chilled fans.

But Bob, who suffered a spin-out early in the race, recovered for second place.

Terry Seelye's victory string ended at three in the 50-lap double-point sportsman feature. Skip Furlow, Panama, carried home the hardware and first place prize money.

The most exciting feature of the night was the 20-lap hooligan event. Tim Johnson, Celoron, won out in a three-way battle with Paul Higbe, Busti and Harold Hobb, Jamestown.

Johnson became the first two-time victor at the raceway for the novice division.

The biggest race of the season for the sportsman division will be held next Saturday night. The Try-M 100 will be the main event and it also will be children's night.

Billy driving a '72 javelin, started in ninth position of the 22-car new stock feature and didn't take him very long to move toward the front. He was sixth on the second lap, fourth on the fourth, second on the seventh and into the lead on the eighth trip around the one-third mile dirt oval.

Floyd Fanale, Jamestown, starting on the pole, led for the first seven laps.

The lead changed hands six times in the sportsman's special. Rod Barton, Frewsburg, opening off the pole led for laps one through three; Jim Kimmy, Erie, numbers four through 11; Barton 12 and 13; Furlow, 14 to 23; Barton 24 and 25; and Furlow the final lap for an easy victory over Bob Schnars.

Johnson took control of the Hooligan 20-lap feature on the 19th lap. Lobb led most of the way and Higbe was number one on the 18th circuit.

John Hedman and his '72

Chevy II was the only Warren driver to dent the top 10 in the late model feature. Starting third off the pole, and third after the first six laps, Hedman slipped back to fourth and fifth; regained third on the 14th lap and held it until the 19th lap before moving into second. Bob Schnars and Paul Helman passed him on the final lap and Hedman collected fourth place money.

John Wiedmaier, driving a '72 Camaro, finished 11th; Emory Mahan and his '72 Plymouth 12th; and Charles Scott, in a '72 Firebird, 14th.

Rodriguez Misses Putt For Tie

Snead Wins Philly Golf Classic

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — J. C. Snead won the third title of his brief professional career Sunday when Chi Chi Rodriguez missed a par putt on the 72nd hole that would have given the little Puerto Rican a tie for the top spot in the IVB-Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Snead, a 30-year-old nephew of the famed Sam Snead, had just finished with a 72 and a total of 282 when Rodriguez approached the final hole on the 6,708-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

The graying, diminutive veteran needed only par on the 420-yard, uphill par four hole to force a sudden-death playoff for the $30,000 first prize.

Chi Chi, however, put his second shot over the green and into the gallery. He chipped back long, about eight feet past the cup, then missed the putt for par.

Rodriguez had a final round 74—two over par on the very tough, cool and breezy layout—and finished second at 283.

Another two strokes back were chunky Jimmy Jamieson and veteran Dick Rhyon, who shared third at 285. Jamieson, who had led or shared the lead through the first two rounds, had a 73 and Rhyon, a career non-winner who had competed in only four events all season, had a 70.

Dave Hill matched that two-under-par 70-best score of the day and two of the only seven sub-par rounds recorded—and was alone in fifth at 286.

Hubert Green, 71, Homero Blancas, 73, and Bob Murphy, 75, were tied at 287 and were the only others able to break par 288 for four rounds on the deceptively difficult layout.

Scores again were exceptionally high. Eighteen of the 73 players—almost one quarter of the field—had final rounds of 80 or higher, one of the highest field performances in recent years on the pro tour.

Snead, who didn't take up golf until after abandoning a career as a minor league pro baseball player, picked up $30,000 for the victory and advanced his total earnings for the year to $62,715.

The gangly, slow-talking native of Virginia struggled for three full years on the tour until he broke through last season.

He won the Tucson and Doral Opens in the space of three weeks, accumulated more than $92,000 in winnings for the year and played a starring role on the United States' victorious Ryder Cup team.

Snead started slowly this season, however, until he vaulted into contention one stroke off the pace with a birdie-birdie-birdie finish Saturday

Pearson Captures MS 400

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — David Pearson fought off stiff challenges from Richard Petty and Bobby Allison midway through the Motor State 400 at Michigan International Speedway Sunday, then pulled away in the last 100 miles to capture the $83,000 NASCAR race.

It was the three-time national champion's third triumph on the NASCAR (National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing) grand national circuit this year and was good for $13,000 plus lap and qualifying money.

Pearson, of Spartansburg, S.C., drove his Purulatur Mercury at an average speed of 146.6 m.p.h. to finish a hefty 16 seconds ahead of Allison, driving a Chevrolet.

Third was Petty in a Dodge, while James Hylton finished fourth, four laps back, and Ron Keselowski was fifth, five laps behind.

Tax Reform Now Certain

By Sylvia Porter

Another massive tax reform law is now a certainty. It could be passed as early as 1973. It will may outlive the historic Tax Reform Act of 1969. It easily could be the most revolutionary tax law in modern times.

It doesn't matter who wins in November—whether a Republican or a Democrat occupies the White House and what newcomers sit in the Senate and the House. It doesn't matter whether the legislation originates with the President or with leaders of Congress, nor does it matter who pushes the hardest for action. And it doesn't matter who you are or what your income bracket is—you'll be affected.

The drive for closing of major tax loopholes has now gained such momentum that it is inconceivable that it will just "fade away," as Administration spokesmen were scoffing a mere few weeks ago. The question of "whether" has been answered; it's yes. The questions are now down to "how much of what," and "when." To document points that may have become lost in today's crescendo of words:

+ Before the Senate Finance Committee for some weeks have actually been tax reform proposals so sweeping that they could wipe out nearly every one of the popular tax shelters on our statute books. This tax bill "foreshadows the future trend the tax law will take," warns Prentice-Hall in a privately circulated analysis of the bill's details. And the advisory service warns its subscribers that "the taxwise way now seems clear; take what you can, when you can, where you can and as much as you can for as long as you can."

+ The tax reforms so widely publicized during the Democratic primaries have helped clarify the pros and cons—and several of Sen. McGovern's proposals have an excellent chance of becoming law in at least some modified form—regardless of whether or not he becomes the Democratic nominee and regardless of whether or not he then goes on to win the White House.

+ Enormous weight has been thrown behind the drive for a fundamental overhaul of our tax structure by the novel move of Rep. Wilbur Mills and Sen. Mike Mansfield for an orderly reconsideration of 54 key tax loopholes during the next few years. Mills, Democratic chairman of the tax-writing House Ways & Means Committee, and Mansfield, Democratic Senate majority leader, will remain in Congress during the period ahead; their influence can be decisive.

+ Meanwhile, it's no secret that President Nixon has been pushed into a position where he must announce some of his own tax reform proposals during the campaign. In the words of one highly placed official, "He has to say something and it has to be meaningful. He will." Nixon well might back the revolutionary proposal to limit tax exemption of state and municipal securities.

Okay, let's start with that one. Let's say limitation of the unique tax-free status of interest on municipal securities becomes law. What form might the limitation take? What might it mean?

The states and cities most likely would be given the option of (1) selling taxable securities with a federal subsidy to offset the increased interest costs to these governments that would follow elimination of the tax exemption their securities now enjoy; or of (2) simply continuing to issue tax exempt obligations without any subsidy. This option approach—a subsidy with taxable securities or continued tax exemption—was in the 1969 reform bill as it was passed by the House.

Because of the bitter opposition of state governors, city mayors and professionals in the markets, though, the provision was deleted in the Senate version.

Now, however, many of the opponents in 1969 strongly support the change. The chances that this will become law are considered by experts in the field to be "very good."

At the same time, it's possible that interest on new tax exempt issues might be made subject to a stiffened minimum tax—eroding but not eliminating the value of tax exempt securities to the very wealthy. This is exceedingly "iffy" at this point. States and cities would not be hurt by the change.

They could either choose to sell taxable securities and get the benefit of a broader market along with an offsetting subsidy or they could choose to sell tax exempt securities and get the benefit of being in a less crowded market.

Ordinary holders of outstanding tax exempts would not be affected, for the change would not be retroactive.

As for the very wealthy, they might be hit a bit—but isn't that an impact you want?

MICE CLIMBERS
WELLINGTON (AP) — Trash-dropping climbers in New Zealand have been blamed for a thriving mouse colony on top of Mt. Egmont (8,260 ft). The Fujiyama-shaped peak was mouse-free until early this year. But the lure of litter and warm weather enticed the mice to the snow-dappled summit. Egmont National Park member David Rawson blamed two kinds of litterbugs: Those who spill rubbish unthinkingly, and those who conceal it under rocks.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable. You are South, have 60 part score, and you hold:

♠4 ♥KQ105 ♦62 ♣AKQ1074

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♣ 1 ♦ 1 ♥ 1 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Some effort should be made to reach slam. The suggested call is three hearts, overriding the game. If partner obliges by bidding three spades to show the spade control, you may now jump to five hearts. This should make it clear that if partner has second round control of diamonds he may then contract for slam. If in response to your three heart bid partner bids four diamonds, you may safely contract for six hearts yourself.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable; you hold:

♠54 ♥QJ7642 ♦J73 ♣J5

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♣ Pass 2 ♠ 3 NT

Dbie. ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner is obviously not interested in hearing about your hearts. If he had the kind of hand you want him to have he would have made a takeout double of the two spade bid, asking you to name your suit. In any event you should permit him to work out his own destiny.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A63 ♥432 ♦KJ1097 ♣Q10

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♣ Pass 1 ♦ 1 ♠

2 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This bid serves a dual purpose. It may enable partner to bid three no trump if that happens to be the best contract or it may permit partner to look around for a slam if his hand is suited for that purpose.

Q. 4—Partner opens with one club, and you hold:

♠KQJ108642 ♥KQ ♦10 ♣KQ

What is your response?

A.—Since the only losers are aces, our own choice is an immediate leap to four no trump, a clear-cut Blackwood bid. If partner happens to have four aces, the grand slam is easy. If he has three, you contract for small slam. If he has only two, your contract of five spades will be safe.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AKQ42 ♥Q9874 ♦Q4 ♣J

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♣ 1 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—With this inviting distribution we would be inclined to insist upon a game contract, even tho partner has shown no great strength by his overall at the level of one. Only a call of two spades will be accepted as proper. A mere bid of one spade would not be forcing on North who did not open the bidding, and might decide to quit.

Q. 6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠QJ102 ♦Q1084 ♣AJ982

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

Pass Pass Pass 1 ♦

What do you bid now?

A.—Our choice is two hearts. You should insist upon playing this hand for a game. There is no way to describe the power of your holding after a previous pass other than a cue bid in the adverse suit which, by inference, indicates a satisfaction with diamonds.

Hints from Heloise

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Thought you might like to pass one of my ideas on to your readers.

Being enthusiastic outdoor cooks, we have for years used a small plastic garbage can with a clamp-on lid (in a pretty color), right next to our table and benches in the backyard.

In it we keep paper plates, cups, napkins, matches and other odds and ends we always use when eating outdoors.

I also have a set of stainless steel knives, forks, and spoons and keep them in a plastic box in the can.

With the tight lid, things are protected from rain and wind.

It has really been a help when carrying things outside, and also helps when extras are needed.

Anne Gurka

What time are we eating? I prefer mine medium rare! And you know, Anne, there's really nothing like eating outside, is there?

Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE: Did you ever feel like you were trapped between two layers of dirty dishwater and a layer of dust?

Mrs. A.

DEAR HELOISE:

I thought I would write you something that I learned many years ago from a woman who did my housework.

She took a sheet of newspaper, held it under the faucet until it was wet (one edge, that is) but not so wet that it would tear.

She put the wet side down on the floor and smoothed it out with her hands ... then swept up the pile of dirt that she'd swept from the floors.

Folding the paper in over the trash, she gave a swipe or two with it over the floor and there wouldn't be a smidgen of dust left.

I used this method for years, then bought a dustpan again—but soon returned to my newspaper method. It did a much better job—also, I didn't have a dirty dustpan around to clean.

Thelma Howard

DEAR HELOISE:

Let me tell you what I did on our vacation last year.

I couldn't bear the thought of coming back home (when it was all over) with tons of dirty clothes. We took the four children so you know that is what we would have.

My husband and the kids went swimming on the last day of our vacation before starting for home, and I went to the washateria.

There was an attendant on duty so I shopped while the clothes were washed and dried. It took only about ten minutes to fold the blue jeans and T-shirts after they were washed and dried.

Then when I got back to the motel, I packed them.

This was the first time I have ever felt so good when returning from a vacation—there were no dirty clothes to greet me.

By RUTH LINDBERG

NBC will present an unprecedented series of 10 major league games in prime time, beginning tonight at 8:15 p.m. on WGR, WJAC and WICU. This first game will offer the Detroit Tigers playing the Minnesota Twins.

The game itself will be preceded by "Baseball Today," a pre-game show starting at 8:00 p.m. The program, "The Baseball Broadcaster—Part I" will cover the development of baseball broadcasts and broadcasters by way of audio tapes and film clips, including Graham McNamee and Grantland Rice.

The Tiger-Twins game presents a conflict of quality American League teams, each of which is a prime prospect for top honors in divisional play, the Tigers in the East and the Twins in the West. Curt Gowdy and Tony Kubek will do the commentary for the primary game.

A mystery story from the old West, entitled "The Noose," is this week's episode of "Gunsmoke" at 8:00 p.m. on WBN, WFBG and WSEE. This is a story from 1970, in which character actor Tom Skerritt plays a stranger who returns to Dodge City after 15 years to settle a score and take his vengeance. Noone knows who he is, or what he's after, until he kidnaps Kitty (Amanda Blake).

An hour of music with host Burl Ives, Jimmy Durante, Roger Miller and the Goldiggers will be featured on "The

"I want to be alone," said Greta Garbo to John Barrymore in the film "Grand Hotel." It became the tenet by which the Swedish-born star rules her life. This memorable scene is part of "Hollywood: The Dream Factory," the GE Monogram Series special on the ABC-TV network Monday, June 12, 8 to 9 p.m. EDT. Dick Cavett narrates the Emmy Award winning telecast.

Burl Ives special" at 8:00 p.m. on WK-BW. Lives include "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," by Burl and Jimmy and "Little Bitty Tear" by Burl.

For viewers in the county who get WJET, Ch. 24 in Erie, which is also ABC, another special will be seen entitled "Hollywood: The Dream Factory." This is a GE Monogram Special, which is a nostalgic peek at picture making during the golden years.

Highlighting the special will be exclusive footage revealing the how-it-was done, behind the scenes mechanics for some of Hollywood's lost lavish productions, and also famous scenes by stars including Greta Garbo's vocal debut in talkies; Clark Gable's first screen role; the classic chariot race between Francis X. Bushman and Ramon Novarro from the early silent "Ben-Hur"; and the clash between Clark Gable and Charles Laughton in "Mutiny on the Bounty."

The majority of the hour is film clips from these early movies, gems from the past. For anyone interested in old movies and movie stars from past years, this program will offer one hour of great entertainment. I saw the program the first time it was filmed, and thought it was really great.

"The Curse of the Fly" completes a science-fiction cycle begun with "The Fly" in 1958, and will be seen on "The ABC Monday Night Movie" at 9:00 p.m. on WKBW. This sequel starring Brian Donlevy and Carolee Gray concerns a family in which three members have become mutants.

Flip Wilson will substitute for vacationing Johnny Carson on "The Tonight Show" at 11:30 p.m. Wilson will be heading the late-night entertainment from NBC Studios in Burbank, where his own show originates from. His guests on Monday include George Carlin, David Cassidy and Sarah Vaughn.

TV Movies

1:00 (29) "The Wild One," (1954) Marlon Brando, Lee Marvin; 5:00 (12) "Three Brave Men," (1956) Ernest Borgnine, Ray Milland; 9:00 (7) "The Curse of the Fly," (1966) Brian Donlevy, Carolee Gray; (29) "Sergeant Rutledge," (1960) Constance Towers, Jeffrey Hunter; 11:00 (29) "Port of Call," (1948) Christine Johnson, Bengt Eklund; 11:30 (2A, 10:35) "I Love Melvin," (1953) Debbie Reynolds, Donald O'Connor; (7) "Requiem for a Heavyweight," (1962) Anthony Quinn, Jackie Gleason; 12:45 (29) "Invaders from Mars," Helena Carter, Arthur Franz; 1:00 (4) "Crashout," (1955) William Bendix, Arthur Kennedy.

Microwave Flicks

10:00 (5) "Tombstone," (1942) Richard Dix, Frances Gifford; 1:00 (5) "Perfect Marriage," (1946) Loretta Young, David Niven; 1:30 (11A) "Nightclub Scandal," (1937) John Barrymore, Lynne Overman; 5:00 (9) "Invasion of the Body Snatchers," (1956) Carolyn Jones, Kevin McCarthy; 8:00 (9) "The Soldier," (1965) Rad Markovic, Frazer Macintosh; 11:00 (11A) "Ghosts of Rome," (1961) Vittorio Gassman, Marcello Mastroianni; 11:30 (9) "Blood Alley," (1955) John Wayne, Lauren Bacall.

Public Broadcasting

In the final program of the series, "Young Musical Artists," pianist Minoru Nojima performs "Variations on a Theme of Paganini, opus 35" by Brahms. This program will be seen at 6:30 p.m.

"Great Decisions '72" at 7:30 p.m. will feature a discussion on the Soviet Union and United States and their future course, be it negotiation or confrontation. Ambassadors Anatoly Dobrynin and Charles Bohlen are the special guests on the final program in the series.

"PBS Special of the Week" will present at 8:00 p.m., "Peter Grimes." Benjamin Britten conducts this production of his own modern opera classic, the story of a proud English fisherman, who is tried on charges of mistreating an apprentice and later kills himself.

A group of business and union leaders discuss their problems, goals and mutual concerns on "Rogandus" at 10:30 p.m. This program was recorded at a conference, held in March at University Park.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR MONDAY, JUNE 12, 1972

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)—Timing will be important now. Choose the hours for action astutely; choose those for curtailing as smartly. Shun mere chance-taking.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)—As with Aries, timing will be of the essence, but don't let the thought of it rush you into hasty moves, decisions. Confusion could reign if you let down your guard.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—A good day for handling details ably, getting past opposition deftly and overcoming inhibitions which prevent smart thinking and action.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Though there is a favorable outlook, some not entirely successful operations will need an added "shot in the arm"—new methods, tightening up, maybe just further study.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)—Your dynamic energy and personal magnetism will carry you far—if you are directing endeavors into profitable channels. Eschew the frivolous.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)—An accumulation of "small" items could present a mountain of problems if you are not watching as you go along. Don't procrastinate in anything. Attend to details as they arise.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—Good influences! Activities should be handled evenly so as not to lap over too much in any direction. Start with a tempo you can keep—and maintain it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)—Weigh fitness and the validity of proposed action carefully. Keep your eye on the horizon as you steer your course.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)—Better-than-average opportunities for you to forge ahead and, if one matter seems sluggish, don't think they ALL are. Your outlook most important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—A day in which to avoid making hasty decisions or drawing unwarranted conclusions in the absence of complete knowledge of facts. Otherwise, some nice advantages indicated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—An average day if you so regard it but, if you will strive a little harder, rewards will be gratifying.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—An "on-and-off" day, but you should come through handsomely if you stress your quietly clever manner of handling situations and your tact in dealing with others.

YOU BORN TODAY: Being extraordinarily versatile, you might be called a "Jack of all trades" but, unlike "Jack," you can master any to which you set your mind and heart. You are imaginative, artistic, something of a mystic and poet, but you attain your goals in a most practical way. Even though given to restlessness and impulsiveness, you usually turn in a top performance. Properly educated, of course, you could succeed at almost any vocation you choose, as well as an avocation—which would probably be along literary or musical lines. Birthdate of: Sir Anthony Eden, Brit, statesman.

How To Keep Well

Highway Fatalities

By Dr. T.R. Van Dellen

Annual accident statistics are well-known: 115,000 dead, 400,000 permanently disabled, and 10 million temporarily disabled. Last year, accidents cost our economy $28 billion. To combat this blight, considerable research is being done and we hope the suggestions accruing from these studies and the laws passed will be more practical than emotional.

Every year more than 50,000 highway fatalities occur. More lives are lost in this way than have been lost in the entire Vietnam war. In addition, more than one-half of these deaths were linked to alcohol. The federal government has taken many steps to combat the carnage. One involves a proposal to increase funds for mass transportation. This includes building of new roads and more adequate transit facilities that are safe, fast, and pollution free. There are programs to promote highway and automobile safety, along with help for problem drinkers.

One of the most interesting projects is to upgrade our emergency medical services, especially for accident victims. It is believed that 30,000 lives can be saved each year with special ambulances and helicopters, trained crews, and better communications between these vehicles and hospital emergency or admitting departments. The trauma unit concept is gaining ground. Local governments and medical groups have set up classes to train ambulance personnel. Many physicians are also specializing in emergency room care and are working full time in this department.

A better known effort is promoting the use of seat belts and air bags. These devices minimize damage to the head and body during a crash. There is no doubt about the life saving value of air bags, but many authorities believe that certain technical problems must be solved before these devices can be safely and effectively installed in the millions of autos that will be produced beginning in 1975.

Much remains to be done, but these measures are costly and the question is whether the American public is willing to pay the bill.

TOMORROW: The Calorie Tank.

DIZZINESS ON TURNING

P.D. writes: Why do I become pale and dizzy when I turn my head a certain way?

REPLY

This may stem from an infection of the labyrinth of the ear or from arthritis in the neck that irritates nerves leading to the balancing mechanism.
